WE NOMINATE

Rudolf Alexander Clemen, a dedicated and energetic Princetonian for the past quarter-century, who — to the dismay of bis associates — has announced his impending retirement from the presidency of the Princeton Historical Society. At the time this community-wide organization is preparing to move into the University's Bainbridge House, and to launch programs the 73-year old Clemen has helped conceive and develop, it is his strong feeling that "I have reached the age where I should step aside so that younger men and women sharing my concerns and interests may lead the Society into a new era in which it will be able to play an increasingly important role as a Princeton institution."

During his so-called "retirement years" this native of Halifax, Nova Scotia, has been involved in an astounding number of Princeton activities. For instance, as a Presbyterian minister he used to lecture in the Theological Seminary on social ethics and at one time was President of the Township's Board of Education. He has been Chairman of the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross, a trustee of the Y.M.C.A., President of the Nassau Club and for a decade Vice-President of what he terms "the late Princeton Symphony Orchestra." For years on end he has served as a trustee of Westminster Choir College and has been a member of the Board's Executive Committee.

Some ten years ago, Clemen recalled recently, he "was persuaded" to become president of the Historical Society and to assume responsibility for building the Society on firm foundations. In a very real sense the leadership of a local group was "a sudden switch" for Clemen. As a historian by training, interest and instinct, he had been a founder of "American Heritage," a highly regarded popular magazine of history, and for 20 years had been Executive Vice President of the Society of American Historians, one of whose objectives is encouraging the writing of history as literature through the awarding of prizes recognizing literary achievement.

Prior to moving here early in World War II the versatile Clemen, a product of Dalhousie University (Nova Scotia) and Harvard, had forged an outstanding record as teacher, administrator and journalist. His teaching career carried him to Purdue (where he was a contemporary of Princeton's President Emeritus, Harold Willis Dodds), Northwestern University, the University of Washington and The American University, Washington, D.C. In educational administration he was Assistant to the President of Northwestern in the 1920's and in the mid-1930's President of 107-year old Whitman College, Walla Walla, Washington.

The author of several books in the field of economic history, and still a contributor to scholarly periodicals and such reference works as "The Dictionary of American Biography" and "The Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences," Clemen for some years was editor of the official journal of the meat-packing industry. As a member of the staff of the president of Armour and Company, Chicago, he engaged in research in agricultural economics and published a bulletin widely used in the nation's agricultural colleges at which he frequently lectured. His background also included assignments with the National Resources Committee, Washington, D.C.

For his devotion to his adopted community which is greatly indebted to him; for his part in broadening the horizons of the Historical Society; for constantly stressing that "new ideas" and "often new faces" are the life-blood of service organizations in a democratic society; he is our nominee as

WHERE TO PARK . . .

In Parking Garage? The Borough of Princeton (will, will not; check one) have public parking garages in 1969.

Into the mildly fictitious "capital expenses" budget required by the state from each municipality, the Borough last Wednesday tossed a $600,000 citation for a single parking garage for 1969.

The whole idea of these capital budgets is somewhat ludicrous to begin with because a town isn't legally bound by anything it decides to list. The impression in this case — perhaps unfair, perhaps true enough — is that the Borough needed something or other to beef out 1969 and so decided on a parking garage. After all, why not?

Ellwood Godfrey, Borough Councilman in charge of finance, said on Wednesday night that the capital expenses budget, covering six years, "reflects the best thinking of the administrator and the engineer."

Sewers, Too. In addition to the parking garage, the schedule includes $1 million in sewer-system construction, spread out over '68 ($400,000), '69 and '70 ($300,000 each). This involves the construction of storm drains and improvement to the treatment plant on River Road.

For next year, Council sent to the state its hopes for $54,500 worth of work on Mercer, Pine and John Streets.

Although a governing body

BUILD ME A GARAGE: Maybe, in 1969 or thereabouts, the Borough will construct parking garages — under or above ground — in the heartland area shown in a foot in the garage door appeared this week in the form of an item in the Borough's capital expense schedule.

can shrug off these capital designations with some cynicism, since it isn't legally obliged to carry them out (and after all, who knows what men will be sitting on that distant Council), nevertheless there it is in print: Borough Council scheduling the construction of Princeton's first parking garage.

NOTICE

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday, TOWN TOPICS will be printed on Tuesday next week and distributed on Wednesday. Accordingly, the display advertising deadline will be Saturday noon, and Monday noon for news stories. Classified advertising will be accepted until 5 p.m. Monday.

The garage concept has been talked about for years as one solution to Princeton's parking problem; as long ago as the administration of Mayor P. Mackay Sturges a decade ago, the idea was discussed.

Last July, the Borough Planning Board released something concrete: a "Business Area" study prepared by Raymond and May Associates, Borough planning consultants, recommending one and two-level parking garages with a total capacity of 1,300-1,400 cars.

The keystone of this proposal is that all curb parking—every single last stall—be eliminated on major streets.

Arthur Morgan, chairman of the Planning Board, said in July "The central business district is slowly choking to death, and something must be done."

In the intervening four months, the Planning Board has talked to businessmen and to the Chamber of Commerce and has found, by and large, a cordial reception for the idea.

"It is a step in the right direction," commented Robert V. Dilley, executive director of the Chamber this week. "If the town is willing to make this kind of investment, the Chamber should be impressed enough to support it. I can't see how anyone could find fault with the idea . . ."

Money? The question of the town's investment is not yet resolved, in spite of the $600,000 gesture of last week. At the time of the Raymond and May report, Mr. Morgan said the Borough hoped to "encourage" the building of parking garages by private enterprise and indeed Palmer Square, Inc. had already said it would eventually build one, perhaps on the Playhouse parking lot.

The report itself recommended shifting responsibility from private builders to the Borough and Mr. Dilley prefers this.

"The Borough's action last week is a continuation of the concept of public service in this regard," Mr. Dilley said.

Merrily Escalator? But it is possible to find fault with the idea, in spite of Chamber of Commerce enthusiasm. Mr. Dilley himself admits that the flow in and out of parking garages at peak times could be peak indeed.

O. Kline Fulmer, architect, of Palmer and Povent, who has frequently sent the Borough his ideas on traffic and parking, says: "When the cars in those garages move — the jam-up would be terrible! And if apartments or additional stores were built on top of the garages (this was proposed in the Raymond and May report), then the traffic flow would be even worse."

Mr. Fulmer is afraid that even one parking garage would simply attract more cars to the center of town and make Princeton even more immobile than it now is.

Mr. Morgan points out that eliminating all curb parking would take care of this. You wouldn't have more and more cars descending on Princeton because, without any curb parking, there would be no place for them to go if the garages were full.

Park Outside. Peripheral parking areas, outside the Borough, with shuttle buses into town is a possibility, as Mr. Fulmer sees it.

"Store employees right now are responsible for a lot of parking place use — they plug meters all day long," he says. "If they could be jitneyed into town from a parking area outside, innumerable parking spaces could be freed."

He also suggests that the Borough hasn't yet exhausted the possibilities it has at hand now. Enforce the ban against "meter-feeding!" Mr. Fulmer recommends, and don't allow trucks to doublepark during rush hours. And an anti-noise ordinance with a stiff fine attached would to annoy trucking companies, Mr. Fulmer believes, "that they might add their own weight to pressure for a by-pass."

Meantime, "The Planning Board is still all in favor of the parking garage idea," says Mr. Morgan. "We have no power to act on it, of course, but we can urge . . ."

FOUR ARE FINED

For Speeding. Four Princeton drivers were fined Monday for speeding by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr.

They are Preston Evers, 27, 104 Leigh Avenue, $35; Robert A. Taft 2nd, 24, 146 Graduate College, $25; Marcellino P. Roldan, 32, Princeton Inn, $18; and Mrs. Doris R. Koch, 39, Cherry Hill Road, $17. Anthony Cuomo, 65, 122 Linden Lane, paid $15 for a late inspection offense.

In criminal court, Magistrate Tams deferred sentence against Richard Lockhart, 19, 70 Leigh Avenue, pending a pre-sentence investigation of the defendant's record. Lockhart was charged with assault after engaging in a fight with Alan Fort, Jr., 146 Nassau Street, last month in P.J.'s Pancake House on Nassau Street. Mr. Fort was the complainant.

A similiar charge against Lockhart, lodged by Stanley Kravitz, 33, of Highland Park, was dismissed. Mr. Kravitz was also involved in the fracas at the Pancake House. Lockhart, in turn, had signed assault charges against Mr. Fort and Mr. Kravitz. Both were dismissed by Magistrate Tams.

ALICE IN BOROUGH HALL

Alice sighed wearily. "I think you might do something better with the time," she said, "than wasting it in asking riddles that have no answers."

Borough Council held a curious Mad Tea-Party meeting last Wednesday — curious to begin with, because Council usually meets Tuesday — in which:

● Council found themselves lectured sternly for not giving enough thought to bicycle paths.

● A startled mayor found himself required to cast his first-tie-breaking vote in five years of public office (on a matter so trivial it's a wonder it came up at all).

● An aroused citizen asked for an ordinance making it illegal to steal election posters off utility poles.

● Five liquor stores said they approve granting a liquor license to a restaurant (for news about Renwick's, see below.)

● Council tossed into its '69 capital budget $600,000 for a parking garage, but that doesn't necessarily mean a single parking garage will ever get built. (See "This is Princeton.")

● Everybody moved to the next place at the tea-table and started all over again to say the same things about teenagers.

Martin Lombardo, 329 Nassau, rose for the third time in the Council chamber to press for a committee on juvenile problems and the hiring of a social worker. He challenged Mayor Henry S. Patterson and Councilmen to tell what they had done since he first appeared three months ago, and he concluded by saying, "I'll take this to the public!"

"You can take it anywhere you like," Mayor Patterson retorted. He then repeated, in a resigned tone, all the things he has said before about juvenile problems at Council meetings, press conferences and in conversations with private individuals.

"No committee is going to solve this problem, and I said so first time you came here," the Mayor told Mr. Lombardo. He said he had talked with churches (about the dances), with the Joint Recreation Board, with University students and parents.

He said pointedly that he had talked with young basketball players in the John Street area long before Mr. Lombardo made his first appearance before Council.

"We are seeking solutions slowly," said Councilman William H. Walker. "I am in favor of a youth council, myself, but I want to know who would be on it and what their 'charge' would be." Mayor Patterson then said that maybe a youth council might work, and he told Council that Mr. Lombardo is going to Montclair on the Mayor's behalf to look over some youth enterprises there.

"Any solution must come from the community, not from Mayor and Council," Mr. Walker observed.

The social worker? Council hasn't talked about it in the past month, Mayor Patterson said.

There was some discussion about the intensity of teen troubles: are they worse than they were? Mr. Walker said tartly, in disagreement with the worried observation of Princeton's president Robert F. Goheen that teen troubles are growing worse, "We are much more knowledgeable in youth matters than the president of Princeton University."

In his monthly Police Commissioner's report, Mr. Walker stated that additional police had been required because newspapers had given undue prominence to teen disturbances.

Lounge at Miss Fine's? Should the gym building at the old Miss Fine's School be turned into a teen lounge?

Mayor Patterson reminded everyone that the Borough has already said the gym would be a social center.

"I would be very much concerned about making it a teen lounge," he said. "I am concerned about the tax rate if we're going to take care of everybody's young men and women. Besides, the kids aren't talking about a municipally-owned lounge, anyway."

"I am appalled," said Councilman Joseph Strayer, who had listened to all this in silence. "The lack of imagination shown by young people who say 'there isn't anything to do' is not very hopeful for the future generation."

"The teens are the unspoken leaders of the community rather than the adults and this is most unfortunate," remarked Mrs. Stanton Waterman, 16 Hunter Road.

On Your Bike! It was Mrs Waterman who went into high gear on bicycle paths Councilmen said, well, it was more a Township problem.

Councilman Alan Carrick assured Mrs. Waterman that a special bike committee in the Township was waiting to roll as soon as the Planning Board had a spare minute to hear what the bike committee had to say.

"Should the governing body of a municipality be asked to do a promotional job?" Mr. Carrick asked the question after Administrator Robert F. Mooney read a routine letter from the county asking Council to approve formation of a promotion committee for Mercer County Airport.

Township Committee unanimously passed the same request in 30 seconds, but Borough Council and members of its audience reminisced at length about how long it took to get from here to southern Ohio, or wherever, by air.

"Encouraging small airports isn't the direction in which to develop public transportation," declared Councilman Enoch Durbin. "I am opposed."

"So am I," agreed Mr. Strayer. This, with Mr. Carrick's "no" meant a 3-3 vote, and to his considerable surprise, Mayor Patterson found everyone looking to him for the tie-breaker. He voted "yes."

As if to underscore the looking-glass world of the meeting, Council introduced an ordinance reversing the STOP sign at Moore and Wiggins, and then tabled it to await state action.

Mr. Lombardo is the one who wanted an ordinance against filching election posters from lamp posts.

RENWICK'S? NO

Waiver Refused. Renwick's will not be able to obtain a license to serve liquor.

The restaurant needed waivers from two institutions—the First Presbyterian Church and Princeton University—that lie within 200 feet of the restaurant. The church, although not formally opposing the license application, nevertheless declined to grant a waiver. The University granted its waiver, hut said it preferred t oleave bot said it preferred to leave Council

Without both waivers, Council cannot legally give Renwick's the license, under state law.

At Borough Council's meeting Wednesday, the matter was tabled because David Deitz, attorney for Harold Ostroff who owns Renwick's, hoped that the church might change its mind. The church hasn't changed its mind, and so the state has been wiped clean.

Five liquor stores—the Cellar, Cousins, Nassau Yeoman's, Varsity and Wine & Game—told Council they approved granting the license so long as Renwick's had bar service only.

First Church Session members said, in their statement, that they regard Renwick's as a reputable establishment and they admit the restaurant's legal right to ask for the license The church bases its position on its own deep involvement with teen-agers. "The Tomb," popular teen gathering place, is in the basement of the church.

FUND NEARS GOAL

Runs Ahead of Last Year. With $362,963 raised, the United Fund has so far reached 82 percent of its goal of $442,333. This is a significant advance over last year at this time, when the campaign had reached only 66 percent of its goal.

Campaign chairman Arthur N. Curtiss stated that returns from the Research and Industrial Division have been outstanding, with most firms showing corporate and employee increases. Mr. Curtiss also noted that the Special Gifts Division showed consistent returns, despite the negative effect of the flucuating stock market.

The divisional results show that the Research and Industrial unit has raised $147,414 toward its quota of $175,000. Other divisions and their returns are Princeton Special Gifts, $113,687 toward a quota of $125,000; Princeton Professions, $26,870 toward $37,000; Princeton Mercantile, $7,325 toward $10,000; Building Trades, $5,556 towards $6,000; Princeton Shopping Center,

THAT'S HOLLYWOOD: Herman Glegauer (Louis Galferio) tries to break through to Susan, his new star, played by Ellen Foster. Both are in the McCarter repertory production of "Once in a Lifetime."

News Of The THEATRES

SEASON ENDS

With Comedy. Leave 'em laughing, they always say, and that's what McCarter has done this fall with its final repertory offering, "Once in a Lifetime," the 1930 George Kaufman-Moss Hart comedy about life and laffs in Hollywood.

You'll have a chance to see "Once" this Thursday at 7:30 and this Saturday at 8:30 and with that Saturday performance, the curtain will ring down on the fall season.

It's a darned good production, any way you look at it. Anthony Stimac, who earlier in the season managed to make Aeschylus move, keeps things happily rolling with Kaufman and Hart. He has had a wonderful time directing this comedy and it shows, all the way. (So long as you don't examine the bit performers too closely.)

To begin with, Arnold Roth has drawn some of the happiest sets from Early Hollywood you ever saw, including a gold-plated, diamond-initialed dinner service and a long-distance telephone with a mouthpiece that reaches all the way to Stage Nine. It's great, Arnie, great.

From the minute she sighs onto the creaky bed in the Times Square hotel room and lights a sad cigarette, Susan Babel as May is colossal. (Why fuss around as Cassandra when you can play a part like May?)

Charles D. Tomlinson has dressed Miss Babel in vintage John Held Jr. clothes so absolutely 1929-authentic that they could go into any 1966 discotheque.

And George! Well, George—er Dr. Lewis, to promote him as he gets promoted along about Act II—is Ken Costigan, freed from the directorial travail of "View from the Bridge" to show us all that he's the best straight man in the business.

With a little bow-tie smile and the kind of native genius that made Hollywood what it is the forgets to have the lights turned on for the Big Scene. Result? Critical praise for his creative lighting ef-feels . . .), George almost steals the show.

But he has competition (that May!) from others in the east. Besides May, there is Herman Glogauer in op-art striped suit and manie eyeballs, played by Louis Galferio. Glogauer owns the studio and also, as the plot progresses, 2,000 inadvertent airplanes. ("Hell's Angels," anyone?)

David Morgk in Jerry, third man in the May-George trio, but his part is so right-angled that he leaves an impression of nice wavy hair and not much else, through no fault of his own.

It's a little hard to comment on other roles, because practically everyone in the company plays everyone else. Marc Laims, for example, has three parts; Etain O'Malley (remember Ophelia?) has two including a hat-cheek girl, of all things; Michael Schultz has two, one of them being the kind of Pullman porter you aren't allowed to write into plays any more.

As we said before, some bit players couldn't quite make it into the high-school drama club, but don't let this bother you too much. Just enjoy those high-spirited sets and all the good laughs and the rather surprising phenomenon of actors obviously having a wonderful time—that curtain-call, for example—and have one yourself.

"ANNE FRANK" AT PDS.

This Weekend. "The Diary of Anne Frank," directed by A. Munroe Wade, will be given by students of Princeton Day School on Friday, Friday and Saturday nights and again on Wednesday, November 23, all at 8:30 in the school's auditorium on The Great Road.

Cast members are Julia Lockwood as "Anne" and Mollie Hall, Sue Ginsberg, Francine Barlow and Gillian Gordon.

Herbert McAneny, assistant to the headmaster at PDS, will portray "Mr. Frank" and Stuart Duncan, a PDS parent, will be "Mr. Dussell." Chip Jemy, Eric Cairns and Erich von Starck, undergraduates at Princeton University, also have roles.

And Win a Prize. Colored your Snow Queen yet? Drawings of the Queen have been passed around in schools so that children can color the Queen in time to win a prize at one of the "Snow Queen" performances in McCarter Thanksgiving weekend.

"Snow Queen" will be given next Friday, November 25, at 3:30 and Saturday, November 26, at 11 and again at 3:30. Color your queen with crayons, paints or pastels and take her to whichever performance you plan to attend.

Prizes will be awarded to the best entries at the end of each of the three performances. You have to take your drawing to the theatre when you go. Don't mail it in. If you don't have a drawing yet, you may pick one up at McCarter Theatre.

Michael Leech, McCarter's director of public relations, had adapted Hans Christian Andersen's fairy tale for this Thanksgiving production.

MORE SUNSHINE

Two More. Because Princeton audiences took Little Mary Sunshine to their nice warm hearts, Theatre Intime is going to give two additional performances of the spoof musical.

It will be shown this Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Murray Theatre. Tickets, at $2, may be reserved by calling 452-3637.

READY, KIDS?

Theatre's Ready for You. Everything from Rudyard Kipling to a private eye is in the books of the Children's Entertainment Series, which will begin its 35th year on January 14.

Series tickets, $4 for the four, may be obtained from Mrs. William H. von Oehsen, 192 Elm Road, 921-2011.

The plays will be given this year in the Princeton High School auditorium, and have been scheduled for Saturdays at 1:30, instead of after school as before.

Four "Just So" stories from Rudyard Kipling will open the Mo'om Pitchers?

At intermission time in McCarter last weekend, Hollywood in 1929 gave way to — well, there was this flyer in the McCarter programs advertising last Monday's evening of avantgarde cinema.

"A manifesto of film epistemology in the form of an actor in conflict with the camera eye . . ." is the way one film was described.

"Dramatic counterpoint, evoking play of line and form as well as symbolic content . . ." was another.

It could be the greatest thing since sound, only listen, Manny, whassis "dramatic counterpoint," anyway?

IT'S NEW To Us

BUY FOR M.S.

Sale Now On. Christmas gifts that will give pleasure and contribute to someone's well-being are gifts, indeed. Browse this Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 10 in the morning to 6 in the afternoon at 6 Gresham, where members of the "Entre Nous" club have assembled their crafts for the benefit of Multiple Sclerosis.

If you know anyone who's size two, you'll take home a Scandinavian pisafore in bright red or royal blue, embroidered spiendidly with traditional motifs. For brother, if he wears about a size three, there's a hand-knit (in Princeton, this time) pullover done in the Scandinavian manner, with horizontal rows in different colors and little contrasting stitches now and again.

Infants' sweaters, perhaps the one in a cable-stitch fine as baby's hair, are one-of-a kind. We think the aprons are, too, but there are so many we couldn't look through the whole pile to tell. Lots of them have bibs — these for REAL cooks but others are waist aprons only, if all you do is serve.

You'll find at 6 Greenholm a large group of hand-painted, hand-decaled boxes, lamphases, planters, trays — Here's a handsome set, consisting of a tray and matching wastebasket "papered" with a reproduction of a lovely Medieval scene, the colors rich, deep and lightly touched with gold.

Other trays are black lacquer, perhaps, or red, with a curving gallery and a charming little floral design in the center or around the inside of the gallery. Oblongs and rounds — take your choice.

Little wooden boxes, painted and decorated by the same affectionate hand, could hold handkerchiefs, candy or findings for sewing. And if you buy bookends, perhaps the sewing box will match!

A hand-made quilt in the "Grandmother's Garden" will go to someone lucky. So will a 54-inch hand-crossstitched tablecloth, blue on white.

For only $1, you may have six hand-hemstitched linen cocktail napkins, and for $1.75, you may have a full dozen. Those lamp bases, wood with bright flowers, are $5, to order. There's a delightful "Sleeping Beauty" one for a child's room.

Pillow cases? Of course — woven or sewn. Something for kitty? Of course — a catnip sock for 15c. Something for a surprise? Of course — a 15c Grab-bag just full of surprise!

BE A TROUBADOR!

Music. Plugged In. Any number can play. That's the way of things at the Joseph Gerard music center on Olden Avenue Extension in Trenton.

We say "center" rather than "store" because Gerard's is indeed a focal point. Walk into the pleasant showroom to look over the Hammond organs or the Mason & Hamlin pianos, and you'll realize after a time, that children, young adults and handsome retired gentlemen with white hair, are learning to play in some of the 10 studios around the periphery of the showroom. You won't hear them, of course, because each studio is completely soundproof, but why is that 10-year-old coming out of a door with music under his arm?

Those Hammond organs, in all their electronic magnificence, are the vital heartstrings of Gerard, and you can find Hammonds here from a model $595 up to an institutional giant costing as much as a house.

It's fascinating to watch a Gerard expert at one of the big double-console Hammonds, and to think how much fun you could have if the double-console were in your own living-room.

The one we heard has the Hammond patented "drawbar" arrangement ,so sensitive that you can obtain, not just a violin string tone, but different kinds of violin string tones, from heart-throbbing gypsy violins to an austere Bach solo.

On this same organ, you can play "Silent Night" as it would be played in a small country Baptist church in the south, or as it might be played on a tremendous cathedral organ. You can play your Bach on a Baroque organ, your Episcopal hymns on a liturgical organ, just through your manipulation of Hammond's console system. (You have 15 models to choose from, by the way.)

At Gerard's, there is a rental plan for pianos or organs, trial plans, pre-purchase lessons. And for people who enjoy the social aspects of Hammond organ ownership, there is the Hammond Club. In one of the comfortable inner rooms, furnished with pleasant Danish modern furniture, you'll find the hospitable coffee urn that testifies to many a sociable evening at Gerard's. Here members of the Hammond Club gather to play for one another, sip coffee and eat doughnuts and watch a film, perhaps, on advanced Hammond technique.

Various artists on the Hammond appear in Trenton under Gerard sponsorship, too, so you can always see how the experts do it and have a good evening at the same time.

Members of Princeton Community Players will perform in Mr. Olessi's "Ecco L'uomo," a one-act play "defining the horror confronting the future of humankind."

The author has directed a cast including Sylvia Pontijn, Lois Cohen, June Crowley, Victor Vargas, Andra Corvino and Bernard Miller.

Preceding the play, Mr. Olessi will read from his poems: "Muleta," a series of bullfight impressions; "The Four Seasons," in which the poet "commemorates the barbarism of the seasons;" "Where, Where, Little Girl," a mourning for innocence and "The German Equinox," written in response to two photographs, one of a youth shot trying to scale the Berlin Wall, and a second showing the shoes of a murdered Jewish child. PLAYHOUSE

Oklahoma! (now playing) was first seen in Princeton a decade ago. It brings back the fine old songs: "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning," "The Surrey With the Fringe on Top," "People Will Say We're In Love," "Oklahoma!" and "I Cain't Say No." The cast includes Gordon MacRae, Shirley Jones, Red Steiger and Eddy Albert. The Agnes De-Mille ballets still sparkle.

GARDEN

Dead Heat on a Merry-go-round and The Group (double feature, now playing. "Dead Heat" is the tale of the most intricately performed bank heist in years. James Coburn, in the role of a con man just released from jail, is the leader of the heisters. His target is a bank in the center of Los Angeles International Airport. His companions are colorfully acted by Aldo Ray, Michael Strong and Severn Darden. Camilla Sparv is the pretty heroine, an unsuspecting girl Coburn marries to exploit. He rects the amiable swindler-bero with a breeziness that is engaging and the comedy caper is a criss-cross of activity all over the airport, with a twist ending.

"The Group", which drew full houses last April, returns for another showing. It is an uncommonly faithful adaption of Mary McCarthy's novel. The two-and-a-half hour film records virtually all of the crucial episodes in the lives of eight Vassar College girls, starting with a wedding and ending with a funeral. The atmosphere is the Thirties and the cast (most of whom are unknowns) is excellent.

TWO WALLETS STOLEN

In Township. Two wallets containing a combined total of $147 were removed by larcenies reported in the Township last week by Detective Fred Porter.

Both wallet thefts occurred on Monday. Philip W. Green of Old Bridge left his momentarily on a counter of the Shopping Center branch of the Princeton Bank and Trust, while getting information from a teller. His black seal leather wallet, which he valued at $35, contained $50 cash and 10 credit cards.

Mr. Green told police there were between 35-40 people in the bank at the time. The theft took place about 2:30 p.m.

Approximately two and one-half hours earlier, Robert W. Seliga of Trenton was making a delivery at Center Stationers in the Shopping Center.

On the seat of his truck he had left his green ski jacket whose left pocket held his wallet. When he returned both were missing. The wallet contained $97; the jacket he valued at $35 and his leather wallet at $25.

the collection of Mason & Hamlin, that aristocrat of fine pianos. The Chickering piano is a Gerard line, too.

Behind the main showroom in a workshop, a Gerard artisan rebuilds old pianos — he was listening to a Mozart concerto as he worked, the day we met him — and makes the veterans as good as new for Gerard's used piano department.

The center also has stereo — H. H. Scott for absolute quality, and Clairtone in the medium-price range. Clairtone is the only firm that produces only stereos, and such specialization brings results, as your ear will tell you.

SHOP IN PEACE

At New Boutique. Park and shop in leisure at the new Village Boutique in Lawrenceville, and have the pleasure of the nice ride in the country at the same time.

Village Boutique is on Main Street, on the edge of town as you approach from Princeton. It's in a spandy white-painted old house, but the things inside are as new as next Chrisatmas.

Raw silk, for example, covers tissue boxes, cigarette cases and eye-glass cases with raspberry or lime, turquoise or chartreuse, each with a folded medallion or fleur de lis in the corner. The copper silk covering the tissue box is especially noteworthy for unusual color.

Village Boutique's own favorite is the collection of white felt wall-hung mottoes and verses for children. One begins "Be kind and thoughtful to your mother . . ." (what an opener!) and another, titled "Patience," starts out "Don't give up when things go wrong."

A "Teen Creed" begins "Don't let your parents down — they brought you up" and ends "Don't let the crowd pressure you; stand for something or you'll fall for anything."

Where were we? Ah — in the Boutique corner. Well, here you'll find ways to keep your closet full of glamor and your clothes empty of wrinkles. The velvet-covered double hanger is for knits, to keep them from decline and sag. The little velvet caddy has hooks to sustain your belts.

Small things for Christmas: a wallet-size travel set for women, in a Persian gold design with manicure tools and little razor. For men, its black like a key case, $2; three-inch black drum with needlepoint holds a miniature pair of scissors, measuring tape and tiny spools of thread; your favorite hypochondriac will love the little leather case for the three pill phials.

Christmas decorations at the Boutique include a pair of antiqued gold (green, claret) wooden candlesticks with holes at the candle base for flowers, sprays of greens or what have you? The candles to go in, are here, too, and so are the "greens."

On the jewelry ease are delicate Viennese dangles or primitive African stone chunks, for pierced or pierced-look ears. Junoesque customers will want that big Baroque pair of earrings formed of blue and gold stone clusters.

TREASURES ON VIEW

In Library Exhibit. One of Beethoven's sketchbooks, a hand-written score by Wagner and an unpublished composition by Debussy are among the musical treasures now being displayed at Firestone Library in an exhibition called "An Historical Survey of Music in the Western World."

The exhibition covers more than 2,000 years of music history from Ancient Greece to the electronic age. Beside manuscripts, models and photographs illustrate varied aspects, both historical and theoretical, of music in the West.

Material for the exhibition has been drawn from University collections and from the private collection of William H. Scheide of 133 Library Place. A musicologist and director of the Bach Aria Group of New York, Mr. Scheide has placed his collection on permanent loan at the University.

The musical "survey" includes dozens of manuscripts by great composers. The 112-page Beethoven sketchbook contains the preliminary notes for the Ninth Symphony and for the Piano Sonata in A major.

Viewers can see the musician's laborious process of composition reflected in his painstakingly drawn notes. By contrast, Mozart's rapid composition is seen in the certain, unhesitating writing of his autograph score of the K332 sonata.

Bach is represented in the exhibition by two autograph scores from the Scheide Collection. Also on display is Stravinsky's autograph of the "Piano-Rag Music" dedicated to Arthur Rubenstein.

A display on music printing includes the earliest known example of printed music notation, the 1473 work by Jean de Gerson. An even older item is the fragment of notation from an English motet which dates from the 13th century.

A final section of the exhibition is devoted to compositions of University faculty composers Milton Babbitt, Edward Cone, James Randall and Roger Sessions. The works exemplify the variety of contemporary composition. Represented are both tonal and atonal composition in both convential and eletronic media.

igh Avenue, returned home from work Thursday evening at 6, he noticed the following missing from his apartment: a $20 suitcase, a $49 radio, an $8 alarm clock and various articles of clothing. He told police that he had left his door open.

Robert L. Cox, 1939 Hall, Princeton University, reported theft and malicious damage to his 1966 convertible last week while it was parked in the lot south of the campus power plant.

Police report that apparently the rear window had been slit to gain entry. Inside the entire dash and ignition system had been wrenched away.

Missing were a tachometer valued at $49.50 and gauges for temperature and ampheres worth $14.95. The victim told police that he estimated the car had been driven some 20 miles, according to the mileage indicator. From the amount of mud they found on the carpeting, police estimated three or four persons were involved.

"IT'S A HOLY WAR"

Councilman, on Viet Nam. "Fighting in Viet Nam is precisely the right thing for us to do — it is a 'Holy War'!"

Enoch Durbin, 246 Western Way, returned a week ago from a 12-day tour of Viet Nam, and he is enthusiastically carrying to friends and community his deep belief in the rightness of U.S. action.

Dr. Durbin is a Democratic member of Borough Council and professor of aerospace and mechanical sciences at Princeton University. He was sent to Viet Nam by the Defense Department to examine the effectiveness of research and development in electronics and aviation, and to see what should be done next.

Dynamic and articulate, smiling and eager in spite of the

CRUSADER: Enoch Durbin, parent of 18-year-old son who may one day serve in Viet Nam, sees the struggle there as a "Holy War."

profound earnestness of his conviction, Dr. Durbin wants everyone to understand that "I am not one of those guys who spends 13 days in Viet Nam and comes home an expert."

Nevertheless, he is a man who actually watched a battle, a man who talked with soldiers recently wounded, a man who took to Southeast Asia his own young radicalism as a City College undergraduate and his present liberal convictions.

We Are Winning. "I am strongly opposed to communism in Viet Nam because the communists are trying to impose themselves by terror, and that's what makes it a 'Holy War'," he says with emphasis. "If this were a genuine groundswell from the Vietnamese people — it would be quite different."

"And I am convinced we are winning — quite clearly. We win in every major battle, and this has tremendous psychological implications for the enemy."

An Army officer told Dr. Durbin he will fire a thousand rounds of ammunition at just one man, hoping the man will escape and tell his comrades in the Viet Cong, with awe, about the amount of ammunition the Americans can afford to fire at one man.

"Things like this have caused an increase in surrenders," Dr. Durbin believes, "and this in turn, saves lives.

"There is this fantastic dedication, clear-thinking and intelligence on the part of our military leaders," he adds. "I met half a dozen guys who would be great college presidents; they see the relationship of what they're doing in the military, to economics and politics. Everyone I talked to seems to weigh all these factors — the people are fantastically sensitive."

Check Your Baggage. With his group of aerospace specialists, Dr. Durbin flew in armed helicopters the way other professional men might take the shuttle to Boston.

"We actually watched a battle!" he exclaims. "We hovered about 20 minutes, watched the dropping of the smoke canister to identify the landing zone, then the laying down of artillery fire, then the armed helicopters going into the cleared area— like being in the loge of a theatre! The commander of the operation directed all his men from a helicopter . . . like a theatre director. And overhead with us, hovered the ambulance helicopter."

Dr. Durbin believes that this kind of operation, rather than push-buttons, may be the war of the future. "If that dreadful circumstance should ever occur."

"Medical attention for wounded men is fantastic," he continues. "The median time between getting hit and being on a medical helicopter is only 12 minutes, and in 20 minutes, a man is in a base camp, and in a couple of hours he's in Saigon, if he has been badly wounded."

Morale. "The only sour note in my whole trip was what I heard from wounded men in a Saigon field hospital," he says, "They'd received letters from the Berkeley Viet Nam Committee, and they were convinced that Americans were donating blood to the Viet Cong and were strongly opposed to the war. It was really disturbing; so much worse than the corny kind of propaganda the Viet Cong hands out — anybody can see through that."

The tactics and strategy used by American troops in dealing with the villages interests Dr. Durbin keenly.

"We fly over a village dropping leaflets telling people to assemble in the soccer field RIGHT NOW. Then we land, and get the village elders to point out the V.C.s in the village. Afterwards, we keep appearing in great and powerful numbers, and that power and 'presence' give villagers strength to deny shelter to the V.C."

He tells the story of a commander who refused to retaliate against a village which had just fired a devastating mortar barrage because the commander and his men had worked so hard to make friends and allies of the villagers.

The Business at Hand. Technically — because it was a technical mission?

"We need to improve the performance of helicopters," he states. "No matter how well a man is trained, he can't fly one properly unless he's got a seat-of-the-pants feel, and this is very bad I think the Army should explore the use of British hover-craft to a greater extent."

Dr. Durbin smiled. "You know, the technical problems that are solveable, are solved by the troops right there. The ones they can't solve, they gave to us!"

The aerospace expert will continue to serve on a technical committee concerned with the development of air mobility, but he regards his most important role as that of crusader.

"Southeast Asia is looking to us for leadership," he declares. "You see this in all countries in that part of the world. That's another reason why winning this holy war is so terribly important."

TO SEND "DITTY BAGS"

To Soldiers in Viet Nam. The Princeton Rotary Club has voted to assist the Red Cross by supplying the 100 "ditty bags" requested from the Princeton area to be sent to soldiers in Viet Nam in time for Christmas.

The Red Cross plans to send 36,000 bags to Vietnam. The 12 by 13 inch net bags, which derive their name from World War 1, will be filled with small items, such as pens, pencils, harmonica, games and even popcorn seeds ready to pop.

DICKINSON HALL TARGET

Of Vandals. Dickinson Hall, near Washington Road on the university campus, was visited by vandals during the weekend.

Borough police report that someone knocked over approximately 10 fire extinguishers, broke several light bulbs and a pane of glass and damaged a classroom door. In addition, obscene words were left on many blackboards. Police added that the building is currently being renovated by the Matthews Construction Company.

An office window on the east side of the Calvary Baptist Church, corner of Walnut Lane and Houghton, was shattered at 4:50 Friday afternoon by a small rock. Police said that someone was inside cleaning at the time.

SEEKS PARKING WAIVER

To Add Eating Facility. Sol Davidow, owner of Princeton Stationers, 86 Nassau Street, will appear before the Borough Zoning Monday night with plans to convert the rear of his store into a restaurant facility. He will ask the board to waive off-street parking requirements.

Mr. Davidow plans to have a soda fountain and grill along one side and leave the rest open. There would be no booths or tables. If given the green light, Mr. Davidow reported he intends to spend $20,000 on the facility. "It would be something that Princeton would be proud of," he said.

Officials of Princeton University will be present to spell out in detail their plans to erect a four-story, $2.5 million

Computer Center Building on land owned by the University.

The proposed site (lot 9) already has one major building on it, the Ferris Thompson faculty housing on College Road. The computer center would be between this housing and the Princeton University Alumni Council building, 91 Prospect.

The Board does not feel that the University has met zoning requirements concerning the existence of two or more main buildings on one lot. It also has a number of questions to ask the University about frontage and access. As presently outlined, there is no approach to the proposed center from Prospect Avenue.

In a third case to appear before the Board, John B. Wooldridge, 33 Springdale Road, will seek a use variance. Engaged in the insurance business, Mr. Wooldridge will ask permission to convert part of his home for business use, which is not permitted in the residential zone in which he lives.

APARTMENTS PLANNED

For University Faculty. A garden cluster of 64 apartment units for senior faculty and staff is on the drawing boards of Princeton University.

The two-and-three-story brick structures will be built on 14.5 acres of land west of Harrison Street on the south side of Hartley Avenue directly north of the Lakeside Houses.

John P. Moran, the University's Director of Physical Planning, told the Township Planning Board Monday night that the University planned to build only the 29 units on the four and one-half acre Harrison Street side of the lot as a start, and hopes for spring ground breaking.

The apartments will be grouped around two courtyards, with an open central court separating the two groups. Most of the buildings will be two stories high, but because the land slopes down toward Lake Carnegie, some will be three stories.

Apartments will be duplexes with their own basements and attics, Mr. Moran said, although a few will be all on one floor. When the project is completed, it will contain 22 four-bedroom apartments, 32 two-bedroom apartments and 10 single-bedroom units.

The architects — William and Geoffrey Platt of New York — have designed underground garages. Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini commended the University for its underground garage idea, but suggested that more top-side parking for visitors ought to be planned.

The land lies in the Township's Education Zone. Mr. Moran told the Planning Board that zoning requirements on setback and bedroom size were in order.

The University has shown its sketches to residents of the area, Mr. Moran said, adding that the traffic pattern seemed to be the most direct concern of the project's neighbors.

"The Township road committee will certainly be concerned, as the plan is firmed up," commented Hans K. Sander, Planning Board chairman.

The informal presentation was made in public session, at Mr. Moran's request. The University has been criticized in the past for presenting many of its early sketch plans to public boards in private.

In other action, the Board heard Benedict Yedlin's plan to subdivide out the house called "Snowden" and its 1.5 acres from the rest of the tract on Snowden Lane which Mr. Yedlin plans to develop.

He told the Board that the house, now divided into apartments, will be sold to a buyer who will convert it back to a single-family house. The matter was tabled.

CANDY SALE LAUNCHED

By YMCA Committee. The Mercer County YMCA's World Service Committee is hoping to raise $2,000 through the candy sale it is conducting. Thirty groups of young people will be selling chocolate mints at $1 a box through Saturday.

Funds raised for the world service committee will be sent to the Liberian YMCA. The Princeton Y has supported the training of Y secretaries in Liberia for a number of years.

FIRE GUTS HOUSE

At 635 Snowden Lane. A flash fire left only the walls and the roof of a Snowden Lane home last week before it was extinguished by the Princeton Fire Department.

A few minutes after 11 p.m. Thursday, James Shriver 3d, 635 Snowden, called Township police to report excitedly that "my house is burning to the ground." A general alarm for all units was sounded at 11:10.

"It was a flash fire; it really went quick," commented fire chief Robert Schafer. He said firemen were able to save the roof and the walls but inside there were only charred remains. No one was injured in the blaze.

The cause? "We checked the house over thoroughly," said Chief Schafer, "and the origin of the fire is undetermined."

crumpled, both sides smashed and its roof ripped open when it glanced off the rear of a parked truck shortly after 10 Friday evening on Witherspoon Street near Clay.

The driver, Ronald Yates, 41, 4 Shirley Court, was taken by ambulance to Princeton Hospital and treated for a whiplash injury and lacerations of the tongue and scalp. He was later released.

Mr. Yates told police he had veered right to avoid an oncoming car. After careening off the truck, which was pushed four feet by the impact, his car continued on for 123 feet, jumped the south curb of Lytle Street and came to rest six inches from a house at 206 Witherspoon. When police arrived, they found Mr. Yates pinned under the dashboard.

Ptl. William Hunter charged Mr. Yates with careless driving. In all, his car traveled 170 feet after striking the truck, police said.

Pamela, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Jeffrey, 55 Patton Avenue, was admitted to Princeton Hospital for observation Saturday, after she was knocked to the pavement by a car on Prospect Avenue. Police said she was apparently uninjured.

Robert H. Johnson, 40, 420 Prospect, told police that neither he nor his passenger saw a child in the roadway until Pamela appeared in his headlights. He applied his brakes but she was bumped by the right fender. The mishap took place at 5:35 p.m.

Car Flips Over. Alexander E. Morris, 25, 12 Princeton Avenue, was treated at Mercer Hospital, Trenton, for lacerations of the scalp, eyelids and nose after his car went off the shoulder of Route 29 Sunday morning at 5.

State Police from the Flemington Barracks said that his car ran up a 12-foot embankment, rolled over and landed right side up on the road. The accident occurred near Lambertville. Mr. Morris was taken to the hospital by the Lambertville First Aid Squad.

Two cyclists and a pedestrian received minor injuries last week after being struck by cars.

Joel K. Carlson, 19, 82 Harris Road, was ticketed by Ptl. Hunter for failure to yield the right of way to Lorraine Falzone, 23, RD3, as she was crossing Witherspoon Street, Friday evening at Nassau.

She was taken to Princeton Hospital for treatment of bruises of the right leg and left hip. The incident took place at 8.48 p.m.

Robert F. Weisbecker Jr., 15, 16 Westerly Road, was knocked from his bike while on the way to school Thursday morning.

He ran into an open door of a parked car operated by James E. Murphy of Trenton on Franklin Avenue. The youth continued on to school after he was taken to Princeton Hospital by Mr. Murphy for treatment of scrapes.

In the Township, Thomas H. Peters, 18, a student at Princeton University, was flipped onto the hood of a sports car last week, breaking its windshield. He was treated for cuts and bruises and released from Princeton Hospital.

The driver, Simon B. Savage III, 22, 199 John Street, told police as he approached the ROTC driveway on Washington Road, he noticed a cyclist making a right hand turn into the drive. He veered to the left to avoid a collision but his front fender caught the bike and flipped it. Ptl. Howard Sweeney made no charges.

SILVER ON VIEW

At University Museum. Eighty-two examples of English silver, which date from 1630 to 1920, are included in a display of the great epoch of British silver-craft at the University Art Museum.

Eighteen of the pieces on display are the work of the Huguenot silversmith Paul de Lamerie. Included are two spoon trays and a silver-gilt ink stand engraved with the Royal Crown and the monogram of Queen Caroline, wife of George II.

Paul Storr, the leading silversmith of the late Georgian period, is represented by a pair of oval meat dishes. Another rare exhibit is a Queen Anne tankard by Pierre Hache.

All the exhibits are from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. Morrison of Short Hills. The Morrisons donated the Museum's Gallery of American Folk Art and also contributed the finest example of American furniture at the University, a Chippendale chair attributed to Benjamin Rudolph.

The exhibition will continue through December 27. The Art Museum is open from 10 to 4 Tuesday through Saturday and from 2 to 4 on Sunday. It is closed on Mondays and on holidays.

THE VAGRANTS DUE

At The Next Door. The Marrowbone Creek Vagrants will entertain this Friday at The Next Door, campus coffeehouse located in the basement of First Presbyterian Church.

The five, who have played together for three years, are members of the Princeton Folk Music Society. Their instruments range from tub to mandolin to banjo and guitar, and their collective style is "authentic bluegrass." Dave Olson, Dave Kohut, Doug Craig, Richard Smith and Chris Stokes form the group.

On Saturday, Ray Johnson will perform. He is in the vanguard of the original tradition of rhythm and blues. The Next Door opens at 9 p.m.

TEENS PLAN DANCE

At Sportsmen's Club. The "Snow Ball" to benefit a student lounge for Princeton teenagers, will be held from 8 until midnight next Friday, November 25, at the Italian American Sportsmen's Club, Terhune Road. Wendy Oldham and Robin Linke are chairmen.

The dance is open to Princeton High, Princeton Day, Stuart and Hun School students. Admission is $3 drag; $2 stag. Music will be by The Null Set, with added attractions.

Assisting the chairmen are Dana Breese, Nancy Spencer and Patty Sheerin.

RE-COUNT MADE

Borough Vote Stands. Borough election totals remain precisely as they were on election night following a re-count this Tuesday in the Mercer County Court House, Trenton.

The Borough re-count was requested by the Mercer County Democratic Party because a Democratic candidate, Dr. Leonard Berry, lost to the winning Republican, Charles Cornforth, by only 32 votes.

The final, re-counted, official tally: Robert Hendry, 1352; Mr. Cornforth, 1513; Fred M. Blatcher, 1489; and Dr. Leonard M. Berry, 1481.

For Republican freeholders-

Elect Karl Weidel and Clifford Soedeker, the result was the same — their slim majority withstood the test of a county-wide recount. Their margin over Democrats Benjamin Palumbo and Thomas Warwick was little changed by official re-tabulation.

Mr. Weidel actually gained four additional votes in Princeton Borough's sixth district. Final totals showed him with 43,614; Mr. Soedeker with 43,072; Mr. Warwick with 42,864; and Mr. Palumbo with 41,702.

TEENS' PARENTS DECIDE

On Committee Name. The Princeton parents who have begun to assist teenagers in their search for a youth center have given themselves a working title: "Parents For Youth." Thomas B. Hartmann is chairman.

Parental goals include (1) search for a building to house dances and informal gatherings, (2) the assistance of as many parents as possible who will contribute time, ideas and support, (3) fund-raising to supplement the teenagers' efforts, and (4) a permanent organizational structure, composed of parents and teens. This will include liaison with other community leaders who head programs for teenagers.

Inquiries are to be directed to Mr. Hartmann or Mrs. Everett Campbell, committee secretary.

FIRST AID UNIT AIDED

By Needlework Guild. The Princeton chapter of the Needlework Guild of America has donated sheets, pillow cases and blankets to the First Aid and Rescue Squad for use in the ambulances. This is the latest of several donations the Guild has made to the Rescue Squad in recent years.

The Needlework Guild is a national charity organization devoted to providing new clothing and household linens to people in need. It has 500 branches throughout the country, which work through established welfare agencies.

Police Action Protested.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I was rather concerned to read that a NEW YORK TIMES photographer was "joggled" by a policeman on Nassau Street last weekend. This event adds to my fears that in the anxiety to control the serious problems associated with the congregating groups of young people in Princeton, a state may develop in which the Constitutional rights of innocent individuals may be flagrantly violated.

From my own experience, I am reminded of the main street in Hyannisport, Massachusetts (Cape Cod) on summer evenings where if one does not walk briskly, he is physically helped to move a little faster by a police officer. Surely, we do not want Nassau Street to attain a similar notoriety. Let us do all we can to solve the "weekend" problem in Princeton, but let it be done within the limits of the law and with respect for the freedom of assembly in public places guaranteed by the Bill of Rights.

CHARLES WARBURTON, JR.
16 Craven Lane
Lawrenceville

Editor's Note: Borough Police report that after they had asked a group of boys to move on, the Times' photographer urged them to come back and pose for another picture. The variance of opinion on how best to handle the matter apparently led to the annoyance on the part of the policeman whose orders were countermanded.

An Unresourceful Community.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Of course I feel deeply concerned over the recent events regarding muggings and discourtesy on Nassau Street in Princeton; however, I wonder if the teenager isn't telling us something about his needs before it is too late. For years in this community we have been proud to discriminate against him rather than include him in our community life.

He is the first to be caught for traffic violations. He is forbidden to congregate on Nassau Street to chat with his friends.

He is unwelcomed in most restaurants in any kind of group gathering. When he waits outside a building to get into a dance to join his friends, he is told to "move along." In fact we are beginning to think dances, coffee places, and the like for teenagers should be eliminated because there is a crowd outside waiting to get in.

What does "the crowd outside waiting to get in" tell us? Where can a teenager go for his fun?

What do we offer? When you really want to "do something," "go somewhere," is home your first choice?

Professional surveys have been done and done. Always the teenager says the same thing: I want a place to go—a place of my own, for my own needs—a place with a variety of things to do, or not do—a place to meet my changing fads.

The answer of the adults in Princeton so far has been negative. We have been able to shut out, move along, lock up, break up . . . These are our answers. Are they answers.

Acting as adults, let's reverse our former policies—obviously they are not working anyway—and open up, welcome, provide, recognize understand the needs of the teenager as a member of our community. Much can be done, and we can do it. We need no more surveys; we need an immediate program made up by the teenagers for the teenagers, supported by the citizens of Princeton.

If members of this community are brilliant enough to help launch man into outer space, can't we be resourceful enough to find some of this inner space for human needs.

ALICE J. BREESE
(Mrs. Gerald Breese)
195 Russell Road

The Time Is Now.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Most adults my age in Princeton grew up in town or here where the thing to do after school was to stop in the local sweet shop or candy store on the way home from school for a snack and chat with their friends. No one thought this was wrong. Most shop owners encouraged it and thrived on it. In fact, the VIP in my class at school was the son of the owner of the candy shop next door.

Our Princeton young people have repeatedly asked for a place to go after school for a snack and a chat where they will be welcome.

The economic facts of life in Princeton are such that no one can afford a place large enough for the young to gather and inexpensive enough for their budgets. Surely we as adults ought to be able to help them provide such a place.

To my mind, all the stated fears and worries about a lounge or "hangout" are irrelevant to the major concern. Can Princeton afford to help its young people have a place where they can gather for the leisure they have earned (some study more hours than their fathers work) and the time to discover with their peers who they are and what they want to do with their lives.

Many adults fear leisure time for the young. They believe busy children are good children. Some of us believe that young people need time just to be. They have had dancing lessons, piano lessons, riding lessons, tennis lessons sometimes something every day in the week.

Now they want and need a part of their time to just sit around. And why not? Don't we as adults enjoy time just to sit and visit with friends?

As one parent of four, firmly convinced that a place for our young people, large enough for hundreds, but cozy enough for a few, is needed, I urge all like minded adults to rally around Parents for Youth. The time for discussion of need is over. Let us proceed with the job in the best, well-planned, quickest way possible.

ALICE L. MALE
(Mrs. Raymond F. Male)

Don't Just Stand There!

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The plans for a student lounge are continuing in spite of the recent controversy about its necessity. Many parents have realized this teenage requirement and have joined forces to make its construction possible.

The Student Lounge Committee needs the town's support. As teenagers, we urge you to call Mr. Thomas Hartmann (921-6266), chairman of the adult student lounge committee. We appreciate the favorable letters and opinions that have been expressed, but we need more than general comments.

We want more than just talk. We want ACTION!

Please support the teenagers of this community by joining together to find a practical solution to our common problem.

UNUSED FUNDS RETURNED

By Recreation Commission. Before the Community Park pool complex opens next spring, the Joint Recreation Commission will have spent upwards of half a million dollars.

Last week, Director R. Donald Barr revealed that the flow od dollars is a two-way street. The Commission is returning to the Borough and Township coffers the $21,300 set aside for life guard salaries, attendants and admission clerks which was never used, of course, when the pool failed to open.

It is also returning $767.25 that was left over from a summer playground budget of $12,100. In addition, when Edward Christiansen, long-time supervisor for the Princeton Play grounds, decided not to return this year, the majority of his duties were assumed by Edward Beacham, assistant recreation director. As a result, Mr. Christiansen's salary of $1,400 will be returned to municipal treasuries.

To protect its big investment, Mr. Barr reported that a three-year fire insurance policy costing $3,750 has been purchased from the Gulick Agency. The premiums, he said, are based on "burnable items" in the complex valued at $124,000.

Mr. Barr added that a $3,419 three-year liability policy has also been purchased from Gulick "which will cover every member of the board up to a million dollars." The two will be combined as one and paid off at the rate of $2,513.70 each year for the next three.

As for the pool complex itself, Mr. Barr said it will soon be "winterized." Barring poor weather, the sod installation will be completed this week, he said, and all but two concrete ramps have been poured.

In a similar manner, the fast-dry tennis courts will be shielded with polyethylene covers and put to bed for the winter. They will reopen in March.

$5,970 FOR SCHOLARS

Raised by Bryn Mawr Sale. The Bryn Mawr Club's annual book sale this spring netted $5,970.96 for the club's scholarship fund.

Girls whose studies at Bryn Mawr are currently being supported by the scholarship fund are Janette Eastman, Roberta Smith, Joyce Monard, Martha Gellman, Elizabeth Margoshes, Anna Stefanetti and Nancy Lynn Mautner.

Miss Palmer, a senior majoring in political science, spent last year in Tokyo at the Stanford Inter-University Center for Japanese Studies. Miss Gellman is currently spending her junior year in Israel.

The club also contributed partial support to Eve-Marie Balle, an exchange student from France who graduated last spring. Mlle. Balle toured the United States this summer, staying with Bryn Mawr alumnae throughout the country.

Mrs. Ernest A. Lynton has been elected president of the club for 1966-67. Other officers are Mrs. James Creese, treasurer; Mrs. Morton Kostin, secretary; Miss Diana Lucas, scholarship chairman; Mrs. Harry Bates, information chairman and Mrs. Joseph Wilder, book sale chairman.

CHAMBER CONCERT SET

By Roosevelt Committee. A wide variety of musical instruments and voices will be heard at the concert sponsored by the newly-formed Roosevelt Committee for Chamber Music to be given at the Roosevelt School Auditorium, Sunday, November 27, at 4.

The program will feature the Fine Arts Wind Quintet playing the Beethoven quintet in E flat, opus 71, and "Les Trois Pieces Breves" by Jacques Ibert. Lois Laverty will sing Schubert's "Shepherd on the Rock," a composition for soprano, clarinet and piano,

Beauty ON THE SQUARE

By Archimedes (Bernard)

HOLIDAY TIME IS SHOW-OFF TIME . . . not only for new party finery . . . but for all of you. There's no point in getting all dressed up . . . if you don't look pretty as a picture from top to toe.

Speaking of toes . . . you will probably wear fine sheer lacy stockings and handsome new shoes with your new gown, won't you? But your hair really takes top importance. Never is it more on display . . . never does it get more exposure to admiring glances than at holiday party time.

So . . . let's take your overall good looks from the top. To begin with, start planning your holiday hair early. Does it need a new permanent wave or body wave? Should the color be rejuvenated? Want a new type cut . . . should you wear a new style?

For the best in hair advice and hair care, come to TAVERNWOOD BEAUTY MANOR, 69 Palmer Square West, or call 924-3983.

MODEL TRAINS TO ROLL

At Rocky Hill Show. The Southern Pacific Railway of Rocky Hill is planning its third annual Christmas Model Railroad Show for Saturday and Sunday, December 17 and 18. Proceeds from the show will benefit the Rocky Hill Fire Company and the Emergency and Rescue Squad.

Four hundred feet of track, new scenery and buildings have been added to the layout since last year's exhibition. Pacific Southern members plan to run more trains this year.

Tickets for the show will cost $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. They will be sold at area hobby shops.

Memberships are still open in the Pacific Southern. The Rocky Hill group of model train buffs incorporated themselves last year as a non-profit organization to do charitable work and promote model railroading. Those interested should call Robert F. Latham, 921-9278.

AFTER THE MOON

Orbiting Lab Planned. University astrophysicists are currently studying the possibility of putting two men in an astronomical observatory into orbit following the successful landing of a U.S. astronaut on the moon.

Profs. Lyman Spitzer Jr. and Robert E. Danielson have indicated that such project could be effected in 1973. Two astronauts would man the observatory, which would orbit the earth for several weeks at an altitude of approximately 350 miles.

The primary equipment of the observatory would be a 40-inch telescope and equipment for taking and transmitting photographs. The telescope would have dual controls to permit operation from the ground and from inside the craft.

The professors have considered launching the observatory with the Saturn 1B rocket, the vehicle designed for the moon-shot. On the other hand, weight considerations might require that the telescope be launched separately in an Atlas-Agena rocket with which the astronauts would rendezvous in space.

Telescopes placed above the earth's atmosphere are useful to scientists because they give a clearer picture of astronomical phenomena than can be obtained from earth. Wavelengths of astronomical objects are distorted as they pass through the earth's atmosphere.

University scientists lifted a telescope over the atmosphere in May by a giant balloon. This project, called Stratoscope II, is being continued simultaneously with the observatory project, and another balloon will be launched in the near future.

LOSES LICENSE 1 YEAR

Involved in Fatal Accident. Edward W. Mowle Jr., 35, Honeybrook Drive, has had his license suspended for one year by the Division of Motor Vehicles for being involved in a fatal accident.

For speeding, David T. Demme, 40, 68 Laurel Road, and Douglas C. Metcalf, 23, 215 Hale Street, Pennington, each lost his license for 60 days. The same offense halted Jerry A. Teddux, Boychoir School; Anita L. Svendsen, 18, RD J; and Nancy K. Sangston, 22, 8 Edge Avenue, Hopewell each 30 days.

TO AIRLIFT MAIL

To Servicemen Overseas. Postmaster John L. Dilworth has announced that first class mail paid at surface rates will be airlifted to military personnel overseas. Christmas mail going to Viet Nam will be sent by ground transportation to San Francisco and airlifted from there.

The deadline for Christmas parcels to Viet Nam is December 1. The airmail deadline is December 10. Only letters, sound recordings and packages weighing 5 pounds or less measuring 60 inches or less in length and girth will be airlifted.

Parcels sent first class to overseas military personnel should be marked on acceptance at the Post Office with the Letters SAM for Surface-airlift mail. The marking will eliminate the necessity of re-weighing and re-measuring at the airlift base.

SCOUTING ON DISPLAY

In Painting Exhibit. Several original paintings of scouting activities, including one by Norman Rockwell, are currently on display at the First National Bank. The works were originally commissioned as illustrations for the Scout magazine, "Boy's Life."

The display is part of a campaign to focus interest on scouting by the Stony Brook District of the George Washington Council of Boy Scouts.

The Scouts' annual "Round-up" of new members is underway, and boys from 8 to 17 are invited to join. The Stony Brook District includes more than 1,700 Scouts.

TO TRACK DINOSAURS

At Junior Museum. Robert Salkin, "the Dinosaur Man," will present a program on dinosaurs and casting dinosaur tracks at the newly re-opened Junior Museum on Sunday at 2.

A Newark public school teacher, Mr. Salkin has worked with several professional paleontological teams since becoming interested in dinosaurs about 12 years ago. He has developed new methods for casting tracks and fossils in metal. Thousands of children have seen his program.

PSYCHIATRIST TO SPEAK

On Schizophrenia. Dr. Humphrey Osmond, director of the State Bureau of Research in Neurology and Psychiatry, will speak at the organizational meeting of the Schizophrenia Foundation of New Jersey to be held on Sunday at 2:30 at the Unitarian Church.

The Foundation is devoted to encouraging research in schzophrenia and assisting in the treatment of patients. Dr. Osmond points out that one out of four of the hospital beds in the United States are occupied by schizophrenic patients.

Dr. Carl C. Pfeiffer, chairman of the section of Neuro-Pharmocology at the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute, will also speak. Dr. Pfeiffer is a leading exponent of the biological approach in the treatment of schizophrenia. The public is invited to the meeting.

PEACE GROUP TO MEET

To Plan Activities. The Princeton Group to End the War in Viet Nam, a union of several independent peace committees, will hold its second meeting next Wednesday, November 23, at 8:30 p.m. at the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church. The meeting is open to everyone, and those with new ideas and projects are particularly invited.

The Group's current projects include a church action group coordinated by Clarence DiDonato, a congressional visits committee led by Owen Shteir, a peace literature bulletin board planned by Marjory Pratt and Priscilla Maren, and a canvassing group for war relief led by Ed O'Brien. The Political Action group is headed by Rose Steinhoff and Celia Eide.

Question of the Week

Question: What is your reaction to election results across the country?

Where asked: Nassau Street

Michael Farny, 743 Prospect Street, administration, Princeton University: I think the most meaningful thing is what Eric Sevareid said on TV the night of the election: that he had never noticed so much hostility in general among the voters and that this was attributable to prospects of a recession, maybe higher taxes and Viet Nam. Added to that is the old man image of President Johnson. He might be an able man but he is not a very inspiring leader. So, therefore, the GOP resurgence represents Republicans returning from the disenchantment of 1964.

Mrs. Julia Ball, Rocky Hill, employee, Fort Dix: I think the gains by the Republicans signify that the people have gotten tired of handout programs . . . Johnson's Great Society . . . everything! We taxpayers are paying for it all.

C. H. Vose, 130 Moore Street, retired electrical engineer: Very good, since I'm a Republican. I see in the GOP gains a return to the old ideals of President Eisenhower and the principles for which this country was founded. In other words, give the states back their rights, less government, more local control.

Scott Weinstein, University sophomore, 1939 Hall: I think you have to look at each individual election; I don't feel the results show any particular trends or reaction. My chief reaction is to the election in California and my reaction there is that the victory of Reagan will undoubtedly have an adverse effect on the situation in Watts and will deny to the so-called liberal population means of expressing its discontent and peacefully working out its frustration. Consequently, one might expect an increase in membership of such organizations as the Progressive Labor Party which is based on malice and whose principal aim is the violent overthrow of the American government.

M. M. Peixoto, Providence, R. I., professor, Brown University: I like it; it helps balance things. We need good men from the Republicans such as Romney and Brooke. Not Reagan, but I think Romney is very good.

William Kalke, graduate student, philosophy: I'm glad to see the GOP come back, especially in the governorships of the various states with the exception of California. I feel they will make the convention two years from now more interesting. The GOP will have more strength and is much less likely to have happen what happened last time. I don't believe the results are a rebuff of Johnson as much as they are a comeback from the flaws of two years ago.

Raymond Vandewater, 2 Chestnut Street, retired University employee of 41 years: I'm a strong Democrat but I still favor some of the returns. I don't think it hurt the Democratic party—loved it up a little—but I think it will keep things under control. I don't think this was a slap at Johnson; I think the Republicans just put up more attractive candidates. It's going to be very interesting two years from now. There's a lot of wounds on both sides that will have to be healed by then.

Walter Mott, Kendall Park, salesman: I think a lot of it had to do with civil rights movements, and the so-called white backlash. A lot of liberals which had formerly been in favor of civil rights have taken an opposite view now because of the violence. I think some of the elections were decided by this backlash. I would like to think, too, that the results had something to do with the Viet Nam situation but I don't think so. I feel there is a lot of dissatisfaction with President Johnson's program there.

Mrs. Walter Mott, Kendall Park, housewife: I'm very satisfied the GOP has gotten in. I disagree with Johnson on Viet Nam and I think the people have shown their dissatisfaction with him. The only thing is the election in Georgia. I think it's a farce. It's ridiculous. We lived there for nine years and I can't see either Maddox or Callaway.

Bert Marsh, 133 Shady Brook Lane, art editor, Boy's Life magazine: The only thing that bothers me is guys like Reagan and Maddox. The weirdos. All the rest didn't seem too bad. If you are going to vote for a movie star, get someone like Sophia Loren.

Mrs. Ann Sheiden, Stockton Street, school teacher: Sort of mixed. I'm a Southerner. I can't approve of Lurleen Wallace getting elected, certainly, as I can of Howard Baker Jr., Dirkson's son-in-law. And the fact that Clement got beaten in Tennessee was tremendous. I'm not too concerned about northern politics. Perhaps the Republican gains were a reaction against Johnson but a number of things enter into it.

MERCEDES-BENZ 250

Appeals to the intellect, not the libido

Revised Report from "Road & Track"

Some cars are merely marketable quantities. Others possess qualities of greatness, commanding respect and admiration even from those who are not impressed with advertising claims, status symbols or the fashions of the day. The Mercedes 250 is one of the latter. It is a marketable quantity too — and will undoubtedly sell well — because there are always people who make decisions with their minds instead of their emotions. It appeals to the intellect, not the libido.

With an introduction like this, one might be led to expect a dull motorcar. But there is the worn-out saying that Beauty is as Beauty does, which might turn out to be the truest saying about the all-new body of the 250. Here is a brand-spanking-new body on an expensive sedan, sharing no sheet metal with its predecessors, and yet there has been no attempt to dramatize the fact. The car still looks like a Mercedes, looks like a family sedan, even looks like a car. Its basic shapes are boxes, trim is added merely to delineate the existing character lines, and there is absolutely no needless bulk to make the car less maneuverable in today's congested traffic. Yet its total effect is nothing less than elegant. There are some heavy-handed touches to be sure: the directional lights at the front, added to meet U.S. lighting requirements. But there is nothing here that can be called contrived, and we are more inclined to tolerate a little clumsiness than the dishonesties so common in some of today's car bodies. Doors are relatively thin, with the curved sides glasses sloping almost out to the maximum body width to allow maximum shoulder room. Length of the "greenhouse" is large in proportion to the overall length of the car. In all, this is a car with the interior dimensions of a large American car and the overall size of an "intermediate."

Actually the 250 doesn't replace any existing Mer- comfort and stability that is the standard for comparison. It may not be as pillowy-riding as our domestic luxury sedans, but it's soft enough for most people we know. In fact, so soft that we were cautious at first about tossing it around on our handling road. But our nerve built up quickly, for we found that it has practically no limits within the bounds of its performance. Response to steering inputs, large or small, is essentially neutral with just a trace of understeer and it is well-nigh impossible to break the rear end loose. Little of this great security is lost on wet pavement, either, for which credit must go to the Continental 7:35-14 cross bias tires (which put up a mild howl to indicate their adhesion).

Thus the 250 is a car that will respond well in an emergency. Mercedes-Benz engineers subject their cars to a "swervability" test to evaluate such response. This test simulates a situation in which the car must swerve to miss a car that has pulled into the road from the side, and still avoid hitting a closely approaching oncoming car. This is done at highway speed and the car must be able to com-

To this end the 250 has the Mercedes "graduated rigidity" principle in its body structure — a highly rigid passenger secton with progressively collapsible ends. The steering column terminates well behind the front wheel centerline, and the steering wheel hub is of large area and padded. All interior knobs are soft, as are grab handles. The rearview mirror is framed and its base will snap off with a minor impact.

The front seats are both adjustable for back rake by a large knurled knob, from almost vertical to fully horizontal, thus forming beds if desired. The driver's séat has a double fore-aft adjustment: the main adjustment is 9.5 in. along the track, and 4.0 in. along a sloping track. If we don't like the looks of that steering wheel, at least it controls the most precise power steering we know of. There is a commanding view of the road ahead, around and behind, although the view ahead could be improved by a lower hoodline.

Noise level is quite low. Our test car had one of the lowest wind noise levels we have ever experienced, and road noise is very low except for the ly true with the automatic transmission, with which our test car was equipped, for there's no such thing as a "torque demand" downshift with this box. There is full manual override, however, which helps. We have dwelt at length on the effectiveness of this transmission before but will repeat that we think it's a marginal proposition. Jerky shifts, and the lack of pep in moving off from rest (except with a full-throttle kickdown) in "drive" or "4" make it fall far short of the smooth and tractable response to which we have become accustomed in American automatics. But then, that sort of automatic would soak up too much of the little engine's torque We made acceleration runs with automatic shifts in range "4" and with manual upshifts, and found the usual worthwhile improvement in times with the manual shifts.

Those nice little touches fairly abound in the 250. There are separate heat controls for the two sides; coded lighting for the heat-ventilation controls (red = heat, blue = fresh air); a handy stick in the steering column for directionals, headlight dimmer and windshield washer (and headlight flasher if it were legal all over the U.S.); a windshield washer/wiper pedal that operates the wipers temporarily when its metal portion only is depressed and both wipers and washers when fully depressed; much genuine wood; a completely finished underdash; a handy fuse box; the neatest vent-window handles we've ever seen; and more. Outside, we appreciated the rubber inserts in the bumpers and chrome trim strips; a trunk lid that doesn't have to be locked to be closed; a locking gas cap (standard); and the generous trunk space.

Minor annoyances crop up in any car. We thought the seats belts needed reels to get them out of the way without bother when releasing them. The standard vinyl upholstery (MB-Tex) is a little austere to our eyes for a $6000 car. We found only two quality slips — a missing knob from the right-hand vent

Actually the 230 doesn't replace any existing Mercedes model. It is an addition to the line, with the 230 S continuing as an equivalent of the previous 220 S/SE. The 250 is also available as S or SE: the S with 2 dual Zenith carburetors develops 146 bhp at 5600 rpm from its 2496-cc engine, and the SE 170 bhp at 5600. The engine is a longer-stroke version of the 220/230 6-cyl. unit but has seven main bearings instead of the five of the smaller unit. The SE uses the 6-plunger injector pump of the 230 SL rather than the simpler 2-plunger arrangement of the 220 SE. In its external dimensions the 250 is just a hair larger than the 220, but improved body design gets considerably more interior space for the 250. Chassis design is basically unchanged, but there are detail refinements such as an automatic height compensator in the rear suspension (introduced as an option last year), and the 250 is the first Mercedes sedan to have disc brakes on all wheels. The 300 series sedans will also be built with the new body; these are just becoming available in the U.S.

Automotive safety is a popular subject these days, but for Mercedes it has been an important issue for years. The 250 is one of the world's safest cars, to be sure, but it is no radical departure from the previous Mercedes sedans in this respect. First and most important, it handles and it stops. Sticking to M-B's long-standing suspension system — unequal-length A-arms at front, single-low-pivot swing axles at rear — the 250 is another step in the refinement of this system and offers a combination of riding plete the maneuver in a given distance, and at a given speed. We haven't tried them all, but we understand no American sedan can pass this test.

Brakes are equally important when it comes to avoiding an accident. The 250 has disc brakes of generous swept area on all wheels and a proportioning valve to limit pressure to the rear brakes. They showed practically no fade in our tests. The ultimate deceleration rate under panic conditions proved to be acceptable — 78%-G, but not outstanding. However proportioning is such that the fronts locked first, then only at low speed, so that the car remained stable and steerable during the panic stop from 80 mph. Interestingly enough, the 250's 4-wheel discs don't have the ultimate stopping power of the 230 SL's disc/drum combination, but the limitation here is probably in the tires which, though adequately large, aren't quite as generous as those on the 230 SL, considering the additional weight of the sedan.

Having attained the proper evasive capability and a body structure that imparts confidence by being rigid and rattlefree, Mercedes engineers go on to make the car crashworthy.

aforementioned tire tread roar (heard only with windows open). There's hardly a trace of harshness in the ride, and this lack of road noise or harshness is all the more remarkable when you consider that this is a unit-body car weighing only 3300 lb. The only noise that ever sticks out is the engine — and that only when it's called upon for hard acceleration in the lower gears. Though smoother and quieter than the 220 engine, it does remind one that under that proud hood there are only 2.5 liters and that they have to work hard for their living. The engine also makes itself heard at idle with audible knocking — probably the result of the single overhead cam and the clearances needed in an engine that works in the 4000-6000 rpm range a good deal of the time. At cruising speeds there's just the faintest hum from the engine, and that probably wouldn't be heard with the radio on.

The one thing that will be missed by many people is the eager resonse of an oversized engine. In order to get any performance from the 250 it is necessary, quite frankly, to keep your foot in it. This is especially our eyes for a $6000 car. We found only two quality slips — a missing knob from the right-hand vent wing, and a piece of carpeting under the drivers feet that had come loose from the basic floor covering mat. Otherwise, the finish was unimpeachable, with even good detailing in the engine compartment. Our test car was black, looking very dignified, and its paintwork was as beautiful as any we've seen.

The ventiation system seemed marginal on our test car. Flow of fresh air through the system was inadequate when we didn't want heat, even though there is provision for the exit of air at the rear of the body. We found ourselves using the boost blower almost constantly. One last irritation: the transmission selector lever (column on our car but a floor shift is optional) must be manipulated rather precisely; bringing it down from reverse, one lands in "3" rather than "4" without checking the quadrant.

To summarize the M-B 250 is to gather superlatives. It is one of the world's finest sedans. It does its intended job beautifully, it has not been created to capture a passing fancy, but rather appeals to those who know what they want, why they want it and how long they're going to keep it. It provides a margin of operational safety beyond what is commercially acceptable as a by-product, is a pleasure for the enthusiastic driver to handle. It is a quietly beautiful sedan. If some say that it doesn't look like 1966, they might be reminded that in 1976 it won't look like 1966 either.

The goal of the operation was to assure protection from the Viet Cong to Vietnamese farmers near Tuy Hoa as they harvested their crops.

Pvt. Puhalski's battalion flew more than 12,000 sorties to push the communists back from the farmers. The successful harvest yielded 25,000 tons of rice.

The 20-year old private serves as a cook for the battalion's 48th Aviation Company. A 1965 graduate of Princeton High School, Pvt. Puhalski entered the Army in January of 1966 and was stationed at Fort Dix before being sent to Viet Nam.

THE PLAY THAT BOWLED YALE OVER: End Larry Stupski (84) racing for the touchdown following blocked punt to bring Princeton from behind Saturday at New Haven. Tigers' 13-7 triumph was first achieved on such a play in 93 years of football with Elis. Bob Matthews Photo.

SPORTS
In Princeton

WOULD YOU BELIEVE . . .

Tigers Have Shot at Title? Last year, and in 1964 as well, Princeton's football team in mid-November was in the thick of the battling for the Ivy League championship. The fact that it is again this season is an accomplishment of even greater magnitude for players and coaches alike, because so much has been achieved in the face of such great adversity.

Having come from behind in the final minutes to defeat both Harvard and Yale — a feat against which the odds were staggering as recently as the third period of the game with the Crimson—the Tigers will conclude the fascinating 1966 season Saturday in a 1:30 contest here against Cornell. If they manage to beat the king-sized Ithacans, they will in all probability finish in a triple tie with Dartmouth, which figures to whip Penn, and Harvard, which should get by Yale.

Rarely does a patched up team such as Princeton was in the Bowl Saturday rally to down its opponent in its biggest game of the year. Not only has the offensive line been a mixture of sophomores and former jayvees from tackle to tackle, but the regular quarterback, Chuck Peters, was benched with a knee injury and on the first play from scrimmage, tailback Dick Bracken went out on a stretcher with an aggravation of a pinched nerve in his neck.

The Tigers won it in about as hard a way as there is—trailing at the half, 7-0, failing to convert when they finally did score, and then recording a last-ditch 13-7 triumph on the supreme defensive play of all—a blocked punt converted into a touchdown. The victory was their sixth in a row over the Blue and leaves Dick Colman with a chance to break the mark of consecutive triumphs set by Charlie Caldwell well against Yale from 1947 to 1952.

Cornell the Spoiler. Saturday's game with Cornell will hinge on the question of Princeton's ability to make a third straight effort of major proportions, and on the degree to which Cornell wants to win after being eliminated last week from title contention. Disappointment can be a major factor in a team's outlook—in contrast to Princeton's eagerness to continue its spectacular November surge, Cornell had hoped to defeat Dartmouth and its loss to the Indians in the second half may have an adverse effect on the caliber of its play Saturday.

QUICK LOOK AT CORNELL

OFFENSE: Has improved each week since early-season shutout by Harvard, averaging 34 points in last four Ivy games.

DEFENSE: Biggest by far in league —line averages 228 — but lacks overall speed and has allowed two touchdowns or more to every opponent save Columbia.

CHIEF ASSET: Good balance on offense, with running of Pete Larson and passing of left-handed Bill Abel the big threats.

CHIEF PROBLEM: The need to score often to offset points allowed by defense.

TYPE OF ATTACK: Wing-T with balanced line.

The Ithacans are, however, unusually big, capable of a good running game and can mix that with a passing threat. Defensively, their unusual size — an average of 228 pounds in the line—has not been a major asset but it is unlikely that an offense as troubled as Princeton's has been is likely to dominate the action.

Pete Larson and Ron Cervase are the Red halfbacks, the former as good a runner as the Ivy League has and its leading scorer with nine touchdowns. Bill Abel, a southpaw, is the quarterback

The Ithacans are a good deal more of a running team than Yale, but Abel throws enough to keep the defense honest. He is not, however, particularly talented; if he

Princeton 18, Yale 13, Harvard 11

While Princeton has won Big Three championships in the past in the role of an underdog, it has probably never acquired one by coming from behind in the final quarter to defeat both Harvard and Yale. There were just over six minutes left when the Tigers went ahead of the Crimson, 18-14, and 3:02 showed on the clock when Larry Stupski dove into the end zone to make it 13-7 at New Haven.

The tally now shows 18 Big Three titles for the Tigers, 13 for Yale and 11 for Harvard. Coach Dick Colman's team has won in each of the last three years.

Other statistics on the series show that Princeton does better against Yale in the Bowl than it does in Palmer Stadium. In their last 11 appearances there, the Tigers have won eight times, a record no other Eli opponent can match.

Yale is the only team Princeton plays to hold an edge in the rivalry, having won 42 to 37 for the Orange and Black, with ten ties. The last deadlock was the 7-7 contest in Palmer Stadium in Fritz Crisler's first year — 1932. A majority of the Eli victories were recorded in the last century, however; in the modern era (post-World War I), the figures show 27 triumphs for Princeton and 19 for Yale.

moves the Red well through the air against the Tigers, they will be in real trouble.

It is, actually, somewhat illogical to install Princeton as the favorite Saturday, as it has been off its ability to take the Big Three title from Harvard and Yale. Illogical, because this is still the same generally inexperienced, injury-ridden team that lost to Colgate and Dartmouth and never looked really convincing in defeating Rutgers, Columbia, Penn and Brown.

If Saturday is another wet afternoon, they are wholly unlikely to be able to run against Cornell's big defensive platoon, and the passing has not been of the take-charge variety all season. Given a dry field, however, and no more than an even share of the breaks, they may just win this one, too, thereby completing an incredible a finish to a season as Princeton football has ever known.

WHY IT HAPPENED

"Sooner or later in a tight game," Charlie Caldwell once said, "you can expect o T formation team to have trouble with a single wing roater snap. When the pressure is on them to do something they don't have to do very often, they are likely to make a costly mistake."

With just over three minutes to go in the Bowl Saturday, the pressure of running out the clock to hold a one-point lead over Princeton became more than Yale could withstand. In a fourth and six situation on the Princeton 31, the snap to Bob Kenney was down around his ankles.

The time he took to lean down for it and straighten up before kicking was also the time Captain Walt Konumbo needed to block the punt with an upraised hand. While he was levelling the only potential tackler, end Larry Stupski scooped up the spinning oval and, with three teammates on hand to block it necessary, raced the remaining 40 yards to the end zone. Stupski would make a great shortstop—never for a moment as he ball slithered slnng the soggy turf did he let it play him.

EVEN AN EGG WOULDN'T HAVE BROKEN: Tiger end Bill Potter (82) is spilled hard in Yale Bowl but football stayed cradled in his arm on vital 13-yard pass from Bob Weber. Play helped Tigers dominate third quarter action, was followed shortly by their first score on third play of final period. TOWN TOPICS Photo by Bob Matthews.

Yale on Top for 57 Minutes.

Viewed from Yale's side of the Bowl, Saturday's game was more frustrating than any of the last five which the Elis have lost to Princeton. Not since their unbeaten team of 1960 levelled the Tigers have Blue partisans come as close to victory—and each year the desire to see the Orange and Black humiliated grows greater.

This time, it appeared that a Tiger eleven that had been good enough to remove Harvard from the ranks of the unbeaten had not been able to save enough to handle Yale. Through a rain-spattered first half, Yale outplayed Princeton every step of the way, running up 13 first downs to three for the visitors, keeping them in their own territory until an interception in the final minute and walking off the field with a 7-0 lead.

Surprisingly, the initiative shifted in the dressing rooms at half-time, and when the teams returned to the soggy field, it was Princeton which dominated the action. The Tigers controlled the ball throughout the third period, refusing to yield a first down. Yale, nursing its slim lead, twice kicked on third down and at least ran out enough of the clock so that the score was unchanged as the final quarter began.

Then—by no means surprisingly—it was Doug James who set the Tigers' first scoring drive in motion by intercepting a Pete Doherty pass on the Elis' 42. Two plays later, he swept wide to the right and run 31 yards to the Yale nine for the longest gain of the day.

Bob Weber replaced him at tailback and shot around the other end to the one and at 1:36 of the fourth quarter, Dave Martin dove over the right side for the TD. Ted Garess converted but Princeton was called for illegal procedure—a lineman in motion before the ball was snapped—and when the kick was tried again from the eight, it was wide.

A punt exchange followed and it was not until the 12-minute mark neared that the blocked punt was engineered to turn the tide. In the remaining time, Yale got the ball twice, threw 13 passes, completed only five and had the last one intercepted to allow the Tigers to run out the clock. The large number of passes, penalties and lines out for TV commercials ran the game to an elapsed time of two hours and 43 minutes — the growing darkness all the greater because the game had started 15 minutes late to meet television network commitments.

Flis Take Charge Early.

Yale drove 70 yards into the end zone immediately after taking the opening kickoff but lost the TD when it was charged with holding on the scoring play and never could make up the deficit. If ever a team lost out in a close game on penalties, it was the Elis; not only was that first touchdown erased but they would in all probability never have had to resort to the punt that Princeton blocked had it not been for a five-yard delay-of-game penalty in that set of downs.

Even the Tigers' one TD from scrimmage was aided when Yale was offside within a yard of its goal line. In all, the losers were tagged 86 yards for various infractions — compared to 17 for Princeton.

After its 70-yard scoring drive in the second quarter gave it a 7-0 lead, Yale never really came close again. The Tigers' defense improved as the game progressed. Yale never moved out of its own territory in the third period and—after the blocked punt—never put a play in motion closer than the Princeton 44 yard line.

For unexplained reasons, the field was never covered, a normal precaution on Friday when the grass is dry to begin with. The wet turf made signaling bleaking extremely difficult, and Princeton was held to less than 50 yards total offense during the first two periods.

PHS HOME FOR FINALE

7-2 Record In Sight. Princeton High School's Dick Wood, about to end his fifth season as head coach of the Little Tigers, is one game away from his best record. If PHS can get by visiting Madison Township on Saturday, it will be the team's seventh victory in nine tries and the most ever rung up by Wood in one season.

The Blue and White enters its finale in high spirits. Last week, it came from behind to score four straight touchdowns in the second half to upend visiting Notre Dame, 32-18. "It was a good game to win," said Wood. "We wanted this one real bad." It was the third meeting between the two and Princeton's first victory.

Following a pair of fine seasons engineered by a superb passer in Glen Davis, Madison Township (near Old Bridge) is floundering this fall. "They're having a poor season," Wood said. "They've won no more than two and Woodbridge beat them, 34-6, on Saturday."

"We do have a better club, and we should win." The game will start at 11.

Like Notre Dame, Madison has won its first two meetings with PHS. Last November, Davis single-handedly demolished the Little Tigers, passing for 340 yards and four touchdowns. His payoff aerials measured. 62, 12, 19, and 25 yards.

Now Davis is gone and, in addition, Madison has other problems, Wood reported that some of its key senior players have been hurt. Double sessions have cut into and harrassed practice sessions.

One of Madison's few assets is its defensive line. "They'll have one of the biggest and heaviest lines we've ever seen," observed Wood. "They have a pair of tremendous tackles."

Turn Around. Against Notre Dame Saturday, PHS turned back-to-back ND fumbles into two scores within 51 seconds to turn the game around with dramatic suddenness and snatch momentum from the Irish. Carmelo Mauro, defensive linebacker for the Blue and White, recovered the first one on the ND 27.

After fullback Ken Grob had run for a first down, PHS was thrown back, but Thom Yoder got it all back on a 22-yard pass to end Tom Wood. Keith Conover's conversion try was blocked.

On the first play from scrimmage following the kickoff, Tom Butterfoss recovered the second ND fumble on the visitor's 30. Grob went up the middle all the way on the next play. Conover, kicking soccer style and from the sideline hashmark, boomed the ball high and between the uprights to give PHS a 13-12 lead.

Commenting later on the play, Wood recalled that ND was tightening up on the defense and he planned to set the Irish up for a pass by first having Grob hit the center of the line. "Darned if Ken didn't go all the way," he said.

Cook to Coach Hockey

Pete Cook, a three-year letterman at Princeton from 1957-59, has been named to coach the Princeton High School hockey team, Joe Jingoli, the school's athletic director, has announced.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter G. Cook of Kingston, he came to Princeton High this year as a teacher of English after teaching and coaching hockey at St. George's School in Newport, R.I. He and his wife and three children are living on Valley Road.

A schedule for the 1966-67 season is being completed and PHS this winter will use the new rink being built at the Princeton Day School. George Thompson will serve with Cook as assistant coach.

"We Outguessed Them."

Those pivotal fumbles were not as unexpected as they may have looked from the stands. "We outguessed them defensively," commented Wood. "We were shooting our linebackers and getting to the man getting the ball."

Wood pointed out that Mike Drulis, the ND quarterback, hands the ball off very close to the line of scrimmage. "You have to get the runner as soon as he gets the ball or he's gone", he said.

In the fourth period, Jeff Bullock intercepted a Drulis pass ijset up, in part, by a tremendous rush by defensive end Fred Foxi and returned it 33 yards down the sidelines to the Irish 29. Grob, Yoder and Bullock then took turns slashing through the ND defense with Bullock covering the last 18 yards in two carries.

Then with 5:44 remaining, PHS held ND on downs on its own 47. Running superbly, Bullock got a first down. Next, Yoder fired to end Rich Volz. Volz eluded his defender in the mud with some lancy stepping, tight-walked down the sideline for the six points. The play covered 41 yards.

ND Scores Early. As Wood put it, PHS "had a little trouble in the first half." The game was only 9 minutes old when ND picked off a Bullock pass intended for Tom Wood. On the next play Rich Hasbrouck romped 46 yards to the one. He took it in on the next play.

With 8:24 remaining in the half, ND, faced with a fourth and 16 from the 20, scored on a pass from Drulis to Paul Ernst. The drive originated on the PHS 36, where Yoder's quick punt from the end zone fell dead.

In between, PHS proved it could move the ball but couldn't score. After ND's first score PHS came right back. With Yoder, Grob and Bullock alternating and all running magnificently, PHS was moving relentlessly—until Bullock fumbled on the 2.

Just before the half ended, Bullock was stopped at the opposite end of the field on fourth down, again at the two. The evenness of the ground game in the first half was revealed in the first half statistics: PHS had 19 first downs, ND 11; PHS gained 149 yards rushing, ND 195.

For Bullock, it was his finest day rushing. His running is all the more remarkable in view of his 146 pounds. He can't bull, he must finesse—and he does it better than any Little Tiger has in years. He has an unusual ability to run literally, looking for holes to develop and then side step, high step and pick his way through the shifting defense.

While he was treating PHS followers in his twinkle-toe artistry, Groh was drawing applause for his power stants of tackle and up the middle. Each has scored eight TD's, twice as many as the next Little Tiger.

Pheasants and Champagne. After the game, a fan came up to Wood and said, "You won, coach, here!" and handed him two pheasants. The following day, Wood reported, another man gave him a bottle of champagne.

"Boy," he said, "if you win, you're right on top!"

PDS GETS WEEK OFF

Through Schedule Snafu. Because of a misunderstanding, last week's scheduled game between Peddie junior varsity and Princeton Day School was not played. Plans for a make-up game were later abandoned after the two schools could not agree on a convenient date.

"It leaves a pocket in our schedule," commented PDS coach Dan Barren, "but we just couldn't get together." Barren, who had led his team to a 5-0 season added that he and the players were disappointed at the turn of events. "When you've got a good club, you like to see whist they can do," he said.

The Blue and White was scheduled to finish its campaign Wednesday when it played host to Morristown Prep. A win would give PDS 10 victories in a row, dating back to the 1965 season.

MATTHEWS UPSET

Nassau-Conover Ties for lead. Nassau-Conover Motors surprised Matthews Construction Company, 14-6 Sunday, tying Matthews for the lead in the final standings of the Midget Football League. In the other game of the double-header, Princeton Fuel Oil edged the University Store into last place, 7-0.

Dave Donahue opened the Nassau-Conover attack, intercepting a Matthews pass and running 68 yards to score. Jack Petrone tied the score briefly for Matthews, but the former leaders failed to tally again.

Tony Bailly scored two more touchdowns for Nassau-Conover, and Kevin Tylus ran over in an extra point. Tylus carried for a total gain of 77 yards, and teammate Mike Kopliner recovered two Matthews fumbles.

Daryl Boone broke through a tenacious University Store defense to score the only touchdown of the game on a 24-yard run for Princeton Fuel. Greg Klein added the finishing touch by running across the extra point.

The League's Post-Season Football Party for players, football school members, and families will be held on Saturday, December 3, at 1:30 in the Community Park School Auditorium. Color movies will be shown; awards will be made, and refreshments will be served.

The final standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Matthews	3	1	.750
Nassau-Conover	3	1	.750
Princeton Fuel	2	2	.500
University Store	0	4	.000

HUN WINS FIRST, 12-7

Pennington Is Final Foe. "We finally got one! We went over there (Newtown, Pa.) to play. There's no question that the kids were up."

After six long games, Hun coach Hawley Waterman could finnally talk as a winner. Hun came up with four pass interceptions, recovered two fumbles and played good destnsive ball to defeat home team George School Saturday, 13-7. "This time, we did not make any mistakes," said Waterman.

With the burden of getting first first one behind it, Hun can partinlly salvage the present campaign by defeating its arch rival and neighbor, Pennington School, in its finale. The two will tangle here on Saturday starting at 2.

"Its THE Game for us and I imagine it is for Pennington, too," commented Waterman. He recounted the pep talk he gave the boys last year was based on the fast that the series was all even. Hun won that one, so Pennington will be trying to even it again.

Another incentive for the Red Raiders and their coach, Harold Poore, is that a victory will mean a winning season. Pennington, which only plays seven this year, is 3-3. Hun, of course, would like to make it two in a row.

Coach Poore has been through this many times before. Now in his 40th year of coaching, he is the dean among all coaches in the Delaware Valley.

Against George School, Hun yielded the game's first score when a bad pass from center resulted in a punt that, according to Waterman, "did not cross the line of scrimmage." Dave Williams of George School picked up the loose ball and raced 44 yards for the TD.

Hun scored twice in the third period. Mike Simko tallied on a 21-yard scamper, but when Hun missed the PAT it looked for a moment as if it might be a 7-6 victim for the third time this season. However, sophomore fullback Rich Male scored from the 12 to give Hun the lead. Mark Short ran the extra point.

BOWLING NOTES

Richardson Rolls 267. Bob Richardson set the new single game high in the Tri-County Firemen's League last week when he rolled a final game 267. That coupled with a 203-158 added up to a 628 series. Bob is a member of the Lawrenceville team.

Mike Kopliner had 216 and Bill Davall 211. Those rolling two fine games include Ray Mount, 196-191; Richard Rodefeld, 191-203; Stanley Donald, 209-191; Art Parr, 199-206; George Kirby, 180-191 and Don Hanley, 195-189.

Princeton No. 1 preserved its six-point spread over second-place Lawrenceville and Princeton Junction, 40 to 34. Mercer No. 3 and Kingston are tied for third with 32 points.

Leo's Gulf lost ground and Princeton Del. Balestrieri Construction and Princeton Inn all gained in the 10 League. As a result, the latter three and Ivy Inn are tied for first with 34 points each. Leo's and Nassau Del are two off the pace.

Bill Murphy of Ivy Inn fashioned the highest single game score, a 254. Al Hibbard led off with a sparkling 246 but then dropped to a 191-166 for a 604 series. Fred Procaccini sandwiched a 161 with games of 227 and 223 for a 611. Others: Joe Tufano, 223-216; Baldino, 202-216 and Ed Dayton and Harry Kahny, 215's.

There was no change among the leaders in the Three-Man Classic League, where Colonial Restaurant, Farr Hardware and Decker's Dairy are 1-2-3 with 10, 18 and 16 wins, followed by Procaccini Construction, 15 and Turney Motors, 14.

Individually, Norm Brown was the most consistent bowler, rolling 210-215-213 for a 638. Bill Penelli had 224, Ed Duncan Sr., 220; and Guido Zineti, 215.

In the Nassau League, Cliffelli Electric emerged with 36 points. Tiger Garage and Princeton Aviation, both 34, and Reformers and First Aid, both 32, trail.

John Cifelli was 40 pins higher than anyone else for single game honors, scattering pins for a sizzling 254. Elmer Perantoni claimed a 204-214 and Bill Penelli, 213-196-205 -614). Ed Hughes had 216-210.

Again last week, the No. 1 staff bowler was Helen Tansil. She rolled games of 197-173-161 for a 531, nine more than Beverly Kiss' 193-181 -522). Betty Pirone had 181, while Sue Rudeman checked in with a 175, 73 pins over her average.

Others who had a fine evening were Diane Turner, 171-163. Irene Tufano, 170 and Pauline Picone, 167. Edie Carfuel converted the difficult 7-split.

The league-leading Irene's Dry Nursery saw its 12 point margin chopped to eight, 50-42, over Jefferson Plumbing. Miss Kenzie Realty (38) and Bucci Builders and Princeton Taxi, both 36, follow.

News Of The CHURCHES

TO OBSERVE 10TH YEAR

Of Westerly Road Church. Two milestones will be marked this weekend at Westerly Road Church: the 10th anniversary of the first worship service and the Rev. Edward H. Morgan's tenth year as pastor.

The church is an outgrowth of a 15-member Bible class that met for 15 years in Princeton. Undenominational and evangelical, the church allocates half of its budget for missions. Operating always under a "debt-free policy, the church will dedicate on Sunday a $35,000, 10-room Sunday School wing for which all funds were on hand before construction began.

Anniversary proceedings will include a family night at 8 p.m. this Friday and the anniversary service at 11 an Sunday, followed by dedication of the new wing at 12:15. All friends of the church are welcome. Assisting the Rev. Mr. Morgan at the dedication will be Dr. Elmer G. Engstrom, president of the board of trustees; Dr. Philip K. Baltzer, Sunday School superintendent, and Jack M. Reynolds, building chairman.

Working Backwards. The original Bible class had been told that the way to start a church was to get a group of people, then a minister, then a house or room where services could be held. "In our case, the Holy Spirit did everything backwards!" a founder recalls. "First we had the building, then the minister after the church was finished, then the congregation."

Three lots were donated to the church by Miss Helen Harris, teacher of the original Bible class, and her sister, Miss Dorothy Harris. The property on Westerly Road was part of the old Richard Stockton farm.

Building costs held back construction until their brother, W. Butler Harris, chanced to see a United States Steel Company advertisement featuring pre-fabricated church buildings. Some $40,000 was then put into a wood and brick structure seating approximately 120 persons, a Sunday school wing, pastors' study and a six-room manse.

Since construction on planned public roads in front of the church had not begun, there was originally no gas, electricity, sewer or water. "I remember one meeting of the Bible class," relates Miss Helen Harris, " when I laid before the women the particular needs of that week. I asked them to please pray that the gas pipes—which had been delayed for weeks—might be put in soon, for we were ready to connect the furnace at the manse. . . . One of the dear ladies prayed fervently for water pipes! Praise the Lord, He knows what we have need of before we ask, and in just a few days the gas pipes were in!"

During construction, Bible class members wrote to a number of clergy connected with independent churches. The ministers helped the group decide upon a constitution and a statement of faith. Mrs. W. D. Lipp and William G. Stellenwerf Jr. were also in the founding group.

"The Lord seemed to lead toward one particular man to be the minister, but it was several months before he knew whether God was calling him to Princeton." A number of pastoral candidates were heard, but the group waited to hear from the first.

First Pastor. When the Rev. Mr. Morgan, then pastor of an independent church in Roanoke, Va., accepted, construction on the manse raced ahead. He officiated at the first service in the church, a prayer meeting, with about 20 of the 22 charter members present.

During the meeting a torrential rain descended, and as the congregation was singing "Showers of Blessing," the water began pouring in under the door—the carpenters hadn't finished putting in the sills.

A graduate of Princeton University, Class of 1938, and of Princeton Theological Seminary, Class of 1942, the Rev. Mr. Morgan spent many of his early years in Princeton. He taught at Salisbury School for boys, Salisbury, Conn., at one time. His father, the late Rev. Minot C. Morgan, was formerly associate pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York City, and pastor of the Greenwich (Conn.) Presbyterian Church.

He is married to the former Helen E. Baldwin of Greenwich, and the father of three children: Edward H. Jr., with the Army Air Force at Chanute, Ill.; Carole, a student at Wheaton College, and David, a freshman at Taylor University. His mother lives at 47 Hawthorne Avenue.

The originally purposed "vibrant missionary program" of the church had grown apace under his leadership. Invitations to the first morning worship service, sent to all who might be interested—including the building's workmen—drew a full house on the first Sunday.

People began to come from Princeton and the surrounding communities. "We watched in awe," says Miss Harris, "as God, not we, added to the church daily and gave us our congregation." Members now total 150, and the new wing, designed by Princeton architect William H. Walker II and constructed by Duncan A. Doyle, will meet the growing requirements of the Sunday School, which now numbers 135.

Among Westerly Road's missions is the ever-growing "tape" ministry which makes available recordings of sermons, services, Bible and missionary conferences of the church. Eleven mission families are partially supported by the church. Four of the young people are on foreign missions and a fifth leaves for the mission field next June.

Trustees include Paul Wright, vice-president; Dr. Gene Nowlin, treasurer; Frank R. Erdman, secretary; Miss Helen B. Harris, W. Douglas Smith and Jack M. Reynolds.

PRINCETON COMMITTEE TO RESCUE ITALIAN ART

The recent floods in Italy have gravely damaged or endangered great masterpieces of Italian art, manuscripts, books and archives, which are part of our cultural heritage. The Italians desperately need materials, skilled technicians and financial aid for restoration. The materials and technicians are on the way but we must support this effort.

A national Committee to Rescue Italian Art has been formed to raise money for the restoration of works of art, library and archival collections and has formally requested from the American government tax exemption for all donations. In many American communities local groups have formed to help the national Committee.

We, the undersigned, urge the Princeton community to support this effort. Donations made out to Rescue Italian Art, Inc. may be sent to:

WE DO!

The time: Dusk. The place: a two-lane road leading to Princeton. The driver in the hot rod edges out to pass a slower car ahead. He scans the road, sees an oncoming car at an apparently safe distance, and pulls out to pass. Suddenly, he freezes. The oncoming car roars towards him. Its deceptive parking lights have tricked him . . . killed him.

Darkness sneaks up on travelers and catches them with their daytime driving habits. At night your eyes play tricks. Slow down! Never trust your judgment in estimating the speed of an oncoming car by its headlights. And never drive with parking lights on. You need your driving lights to see — and be seen. You can count on the unexpected.

The unexpected could be almost anything. Be wary. Slow down. Pass with extra care. Give the driver ahead plenty of room; watch his signals. Watch for stopped vehicles on the road. And if you're drowsy, get off the road.

Driving at night is like driving in another world. Take care. We care!

FIRE DANGER: COOKING OIL

A woman who was planning to fry some potatoes put a pan of cooking oil on the electric range. She was called into the other room and while she was out, the oil reached the flash point and threw flames all over the room.

Her son smelled smoke and came running with a CO_2 fire extinguisher. He put the fire out, opened the windows, checked the roof and attic, turned on the attic exhaust fan and called the fire department.

The firemen were impressed by the boy's resourcefulness, but they also mentioned that the accident was quite common. The trouble is this: To deep-fry properly, the oil needs to be heated nearly to the flash point. The problem is doubled when the oil is heated too fast. The oil on the bottom heats more quickly than that on top; pressure builds up from the vapor created, and the oil can explode without warning. Adding a different kind of oil to some already in the pan creates two layers and makes the situation more dangerous.

ALWAYS heat cooking oil slowly. Use a thermometer. Cut down heat before the oil smokes. Keep a lid to the pan handy. You can cover it quickly and smother the flames. Never turn your back on a pan of heating oil. And remember, a fire extinguisher which everyone knows how to use is indispensable to a home. Ask your fire department to recommend one that is reliable.

AT HOME

HOME HAZARD HUNT

Why hunt hazards? The reason is simple – your family. You can't follow them around and catch them every time they fall, but you can hunt out and destroy the hazards that lead to falls, the leading home accident.

- Stairways are pitfalls. Stairs need bright lighting and a light switch at both ends. Take the time to tack loose stair carpeting.

- When you're tidying downstairs, don't pile on the corner of the steps the odds and ends you plan to take upstairs next time you go. Keep the steps clear of the unexpected.

- Be ruthless. Get rid of scatter rugs and the step stool. Use a stepladder so that you have a hand hold when you put up fresh curtains or change the ceiling light bulb.

- Painted basement stairs are often slippery. A little sharp sand in the paint adds grip. Rubber or abrasive treads are better yet.

Look around. Aim straight at the hazard and the accident can't strike. Good hunting!

BICYCLES IT'S THE LAW!

"Every bicycle when in use at nighttime shall be equipped with a lamp on the front which shall emit a white light visible from a distance of at least 500 feet to the front, and with a lamp on the rear which shall emit a red light visible from a distance of at least 500 feet to the rear.

"No person shall operate a bicycle unless it is equipped with a bell or other device capable of giving a signal audible for a distance of at least 100 feet, except that a bicycle shall not be equipped with nor shall any person use upon a bicycle any siren or whistle.

"Every person operating a bicycle upon a roadway shall ride as near to the right side of the roadway as practicable, exercising due care when passing a standing vehicle or one proceeding in the same direction. Persons riding bicycles upon a roadway shall ride single file, except on paths or parts of roadways set aside for the exclusive use of bicycles."

— from the Motor Vehicle and Traffic Laws of the State of New Jersey

HIGHWAYS SCAN THE SCENE

The scene above has "accident" written all over it. Put yourself in the driver's seat of the black car. You are driving at the 35 mph speed limit and gaining on the car ahead of you. Can you spot the hazard?

Your eyes should tell you two things: (1) You're getting too close to the car ahead; and (2) someone could pull out of the crowded parking area of the roadside stand ahead and cause the driver in front of you to hit the brakes.

If you didn't see it, you're wide open for an accident.

Miss Dey was a member of the New Jersey Retired Teachers Association and a lifelong member of the Hightstown Baptist Church.

The board of elders, moderated by the pastor, includes Mr. Erdman, clerk of sessions; Dr. Baltzer; Dr. Nowlin, William G. Stellenwerf Jr., and Dr. John D. Hagenbuch, all of Princeton; W. Douglas Smith of Belle Mead, Charles O. Bingeisen, Monmouth Junction, Harry Brobst and Walter W. Kennedy, both of Kendall Park.

CHURCH MERGER BACKED

Princeton Leaders Say. The merger plan voted on Friday by the general conferences of the Methodist Church and the Evangelical United Brethren meeting in Chicago is greeted with enthusiasm by Bishop Prince A. Taylor, former president of the Methodist House of Bishops, and the Rev. Dr. Leon Gibson, pastor of Princeton Methodist Church.

"I was in the midst of it," Bishop Taylor, head of the New Jersey Area, said on Tuesday. "I served on several committees, and there were times when we felt differently and times when we felt we would have some difficulties. I am very pleased by the large majority vote that both churches gave."

To Dr. Gibson, the merger vote "was expected, welcome and will surely be ratified by the annual conferences. There's no reason why we should not be one, we have a common tradition, common government."

The merger vote, to be ratified by two-thirds majorities at the annual conferences of both churches, will unite 10.3 million Methodists and 750,000 United Brethren into the nation's largest Protestant denomination, the "United Methodist Church." The target date is 1968.

"We believe that the E.U.B. and the Methodist merger is the first step in the merger of a larger union," Bishop Taylor comments.

Princeton Methodist Church is part of the South New Jersey Annual Conference (similar to diocese or presbytery) within Bishop Taylor's jurisdiction. Members will vote next June.

FAMILY SERIES PLANNED

At Trinity Church. Lecture-discussion series titled "The Family of the Church" will be held at Trinity Church on the four Sunday evenings in Advent.

The Rev. Dr. Seward Hiltner, professor of theology and personality at Princeton Seminary, will be the first leader, speaking at 8:15 p.m. on the difficulties and fruitfulness in family life among people married ten to 15 years.

Future speakers and their topics are the Rev. Dr. James E. Loder, December 4—The teenager in danger of becoming a drop-out; Benjamin M. Wright, M.D., December 11—problems of the wife in her mid-fifties, and Rev. Dr. Samuel W. Blizzard and George J. Longmyhr, M.D., problems created by mobility, moving and migration.

A service of evensong will be held each evening at 7:45 before the program. All interested individuals are invited to attend.

APPOINT MRS. STOHLMAN

At First Church. The session of First Presbyterian Church has named Mrs. W. Frederick Stohlman of 11 Edgehill Road religious education director, capping her many years of service in the church school.

Mrs. Stohlman, a native of Springfield, Mo., is a graduate of Sweetbriar College with advanced degrees in psychology from Cornell University. She taugh psychology at Colorado College for seven years prior to entering the Foreign Service in 1944. It was in Rome that she met her husband, a Princeton University art historian on leave to help the Italian government recover art objects stolen during the German occupation.

A Princeton resident since her marriage and the mother of two daughters, Mrs. Stohlman taught a sixth-grade class of boys at First Church, later becoming superintendent of the junior department. With her husband, who died last January, she initiated the team teaching of a coeducational class of ninth graders. They later developed a course in Christian festivals and symbol for the Key School of Theology.

$6 MILLION ON HAND

For Diocese Building Fund. Bishop George W. Ahr has announced receipt of $6 million in payments on the nearly $18 million pledged towards the building fund of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Trenton. Holy Cross Church ranks fourth among the 71 parishes that over-subscribed their goals. Members gifts and pledges exceeded the parish goal of $162,000 by $68,200.

The diocese's massive building program includes the founding of a major theological seminary to be located on River Road near Titusville, five new high schools with a total capacity of 6,100; modernization and expansion of five high schools, including St. Peter's in New Brunswick, and financial assistance to six other high schools. A commitment has been made by religious orders to staff the new schools in 1969.

A Seminary Committee, consisting of nine study groups of diocesan priests appointed by Bishop Ahr, has visited seminaries in New York, Washington, D. C.; Maryland, Pennsylvania and Michigan to observe recent developments in physical plans, academic program, overall policy and administration. The land for the seminary has been acquired.

Senate of Priests. An advisory Senate of Priests is in the process of formation in the diocese, in accordance with a Second Vatican Council proposal recently prescribed by Pope Paul VI. A letter last week from the Diocesan Board of Consultors to all priests of the diocese requests by this Friday suggestions and recommendations as to Senate function and selection of members.

A Trenton Diocesan Pastoral Council, composed of priests, religious and laymen, will also be formed in the future, Bishop Ahr has announced.

THERE'S NO OTHER HOUSE LIKE THIS ONE

on the market in Princeton, or any other area that we know of. If you adore split levels, center hall Colonials, compact ranch houses, you'll hate this one. But if you like a combination of casual charm, somewhat mad layout and endless possibilities for variations on the theme, this is for you.

The rambling frame house, nestled on a lovely wooded setting, conveys a feeling of its personality on first sight. The rustic atmosphere moves inside with paneling in many rooms, including the large living room with brick fireplace wall. Besides the kitchen, there are four more first floor rooms (one with fireplace) plus tiled bath and laundry-powder-bathhouse room. The rooms are of varying sizes (one is about 25 x 47, for instance!) The upstairs is quite regular — four nice bedrooms plus tiled bath. Storage space is plentiful. The three lovely acres, including box stall, potential playhouse and pretty fenced pool with brick terrace, are an all-age playground. $59,500

EXECUTIVES

Why do so many

when it's time to change jobs?

Today, hundreds of executives will decide to look for a new job. The decision will be made voluntarily if they've reached a dead end or will be FORCED upon them due to a cost reduction program, automation, reorganization, merger, defense contract phase-out or because the boss brought in his nephew. Some will face the problem squarely and calmly; others will fall apart at the seams . . . mentally or even physically. After all you have to make those new car payments each month, Susie needs new braces, etc. Better grab the first thing that comes along. There are plenty of jobs around. Read the want ads. But stop and think. Is the SAME kind of job in a DIFFERENT company all you really want? How is your career shaping up? Where will you be 5 or 10 years from now? And will the next job be just as insecure as the last one?

NO SUCH THING AS SECURITY!

Don't kid yourself. As long as your job depends, in any way, on the whims of people, there is no security. About the closest you can come to REAL security is a record of achievements, a knowledge of your God-given capabilities and the techniques of presenting them properly. WHO CAN YOU TURN TO? Should you see an employment agency or a professional Career Counseling firm? See both. There are many fine employment agencies in the Delaware Valley area. We can recommend several. But remember, MOST top-level executive positions ($10,000 to $50,000) are NOT filled in this way. They are filled by REFERRALS . . . by CONTACTS with executives within the company itself.

HERE'S HOW WE CAN HELP YOU!

Bernard Haldane Associates is NOT an employment agency. We are Executive Job Counselors . . . and have been for two decades. We help the busy executive who wants to MOVE UP to analyze his strengths and parlay them into a higher paying more satisfying job . . . regardless of his age or experience . . . whether he's between jobs or just contemplating a change. We're packaging men, marketing men. But the products we package and market are PEOPLE . . . men and women who want somebody on THEIR team for a change. After we determine which fork in the road you ought to take, career-wise (through testing, depth interviews and such techniques as Success Factor Analysis) we develop a tailor made vehicle to present the NEW you in front of the right men in the right companies at the right time. We show you how to negotiate for a top salary and MAXIMUM fringe benefits. And, we help you analyze the job offers that come in . . . and make the right choice. . . . . (Harvard Business Review, Wall Street Journal, Kiplinger's "Changing Times," etc. have reported on the work of Bernard Haldane.) There is no charge (and no obligation) for a confidential, preliminary interview. To arrange one — at your convenience, during or after working hours . . .

RUN ACROSS ANYTHING GOOD LATELY IN THE MID-$30's? We know how difficult it can be to find anything at all interesting in Princeton Township in this much sought-after price range; that's just why we want you to see this fine new listing of ours in the Littlebrook School district. Set on a dogwood-filled half acre at the end of a trafficless little street, it consists of large entrance hall, step-down living room with fireplace, separate dining room, eat-in kitchen with pine cabinets, paneled playroom and laundry; 3 bedrooms and 2½ baths. Two car garage and full cellar. $37,000

ANOTHER FINE NEW EXCLUSIVE: This one a handsome 4 bedroom Colonial in a most desirable Princeton Township location. From its broad center hall you move, to the right, down a step into the many-windowed living room with fireplace or to the dining room at the left. Straight ahead, tucked away behind the stairs, you'll find an intimate little study. There's a fully equipped kitchen with breakfast nook and a paneled family room opening to a screened porch. 2½ baths. Lovely, shaded ¾ acre. Offered for the first time at $55,000

WHAT A SPOT FOR A MODERN HOUSE! This rugged, south-sloping hillside thick with trees and strewn with craggy boulders would make a spectacular site for a dramatic contemporary. 1½ acres with public utilities. Northwest Township location $17,500

TOWN HOUSE WITH A COUNTRY AIR: With all the accouterments of a landed estate (from orchard to tenant cottage) this fascinating older house must be unique in the Borough of Princeton. Built by a family whose two passions were gardening and entertaining, there is a delightfully easy flow between elegant interior spaces and the terraces and walks of an enormous walled garden. Everywhere, walls of french windows give access to the out-of-doors: from the drawing room, from the dining room, from the ballroom-size second living room and from the library. Upstairs, there are 5 bedrooms, 3 baths and a sitting room with fireplace (one of six in the house). Many intriguing interior touches including terra cotta tile floors, hand carved paneling, a small waterfall and pool and a hidden staircase to the wine cellar really set this house apart. Besides the main house and tenant cottage, there's a beautiful, big apartment wing. Both annexes are rentable and subdivision of a valuable building lot is also a possibility. Offered here for the first time at $135,000

TWO ACRES OF LAWN AND WOODS: Surround this excellent 5 bedroom house in the Western Township. Entrance hall opens to large living room with fireplace and dining room with sliding glass doors to a covered terrace. Fully equipped kitchen. Playroom, 3½ baths. Two car garage and full cellar. $64,500
